

Program Overview

The JAMS Foundation and National Association for Community Mediation (NAFCM) are pleased to announce the 2024-2026 funding track of the Community Mediation Mini-Grant Program (“Program”).

Violence Intervention: Violence in our communities, aggravated and amplified by the pandemic, continues to grow to epidemic proportions. Trauma and hate speech resulting from tensions between social groups and contradictory policies among different levels of government require the engagement of Community Mediation Centers that can initiate, facilitate and raise the level of connection among those organizations working to address these issues.

The focus of this funding cycle will be to support local communities in developing comprehensive approaches to preventing and responding to hate-driven violence, (Hallmark 7), to strengthen existing violence prevention ecosystems, (Hallmark 8), and to link this work with similar or complementary efforts to address hate crimes and violence, (Hallmark 9), both in their service area and nationally.

Systemic changes developed as part of this process should be able to be replicated by community mediation centers as a path for sustainability and growth for the field of community mediation, as well as to inform the development of training, evidence-based strategies, policy and research at the national level.

The Mini-Grant Program is designed to encourage creativity and variation based on research. Service strategies will be developed through the implementation of the “Listening for Action” Leadership Process and strengthened by at least one policy or procedure change developed and locally implemented over a two-year period. Mini-grant recipients will work together throughout the grant period, anchored in the Learning Community. The Learning Community is a structured and collaborative peer working group facilitated by NAFCM. This structure serves as an incubator for innovation by aiding in the development of “good practices.” All materials developed through these grants will be shared with community mediation centers and community mediators across the continent. By distributing these materials, sharing programmatic resources, providing training, and developing national partnerships, NAFCM supports the replication of these service models and ensures the Program’s impact on an international level.

The Learning Community will meet twice a month for the first six months, and monthly thereafter using a specified on-line meeting platform. This Learning Community will follow the “Listening for Action” structured guidance offered by NAFCM that is intended to strengthen the unique work of each project as well as create an executive learning environment that allows the members to grow both individually and professionally.

2024 Solicitation of Interest (SI) Overview

The 2024 Program selection process has two distinct phases.

Phase 1 begins with the release of this 2024 Solicitation of Interest (SI) protocol. This phase is open to any organization which works to incorporate the 9 NAFCM Hallmarks of Community

Mediation and believes that this funding and technical assistance support opportunity is a good fit for the needs of their work and those with whom they work.

An organization is expected to embed the nine hallmarks of community mediation center work. These nine hallmarks of a community mediation center are:

1. A private non-profit or public agency or program thereof, with mediators, staff and governing/advisory board representative of the diversity of the community served.
2. The use of trained community volunteers as providers of mediation services; the practice of mediation is open to all persons.
3. Providing direct access to the public through self-referral and striving to reduce barriers to service including physical, linguistic, cultural, programmatic and economic.
4. Providing service to clients regardless of their ability to pay.
5. Providing service and hiring without discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, gender, age, disabilities, national origin, marital status, personal appearance, gender orientation, family responsibilities, matriculation, political affiliation, source of income.
6. Providing a forum for dispute resolution at the earliest stage of conflict.
7. Providing an alternative to the judicial system at any stage of a conflict.
8. Initiating, facilitating and educating for collaborative community relationships to effect positive systemic change.
9. Engaging in public awareness and educational activities about the values and practices of mediation.

Phase 2 begins in April 2024 and is open only to those who submitted a response to the SI during the prior phase and have been invited to submit a full proposal.

This 2024 Mini-Grant Program is for those applicants wishing to embed the core values identified by community mediators and recorded in the 2019 State of Community Mediation Report: Fairness, Peacemaking and Violence Prevention.

2024 Submission of Interest (SI)

Community mediation is community mobilization. Together, both nationally and locally, we must aggregate the wisdom of our work, amplify the voices of community members so each can be heard, and advance the transformative value of community mediation. To live out this mission, the selected Mini-Grant participants will participate in a Learning Community as described above.

Grants will be awarded by August 31st, 2024 for an initial twelve-month funding period and are renewable for an additional year of funding by agreement of the Mini-Grant recipient, NAFCM, and the JAMS Foundation. Funding is intended primarily for staff time dedicated to program development activities, including participation in the Learning Community and the development of resource materials.

There are three priority considerations in the Solicitation of Interest (SI)

Priority will be given to projects that:

- Build on relationships already established through the work of the applicant, that has created an alternative to the judicial system.(Hallmark 7).
- Seek to support the community to address positive system change through initiating, educating, facilitating that addresses issues of fairness, peacemaking and violence prevention. (Hallmark 8).
- Work to engage in public awareness and educational activities about the values of using community mediation (Hallmark 9).

Funding Parameters and Criteria for the 2024 Funding Cycle

- Mini-Grants of $15,000 per year will be awarded to up to five organizations to be used as incentive funds to support the expansion of the Center’s work with issues regarding the reduction of the facilitators of violence and hate.
- Funding requests may be for up to two years, but decisions regarding second-year funding will be contingent on evidence of benchmark accomplishments at the end of the first year of funding.
- Preference for funding is given to those applicants who have previously demonstrated an ability to bring projects to a level of scalability and sustainability.
- Eligible organizations include nonprofit 501(c)3 organizations, educational institutions, and public or for-profit agencies working in conjunction with nonprofit institutions or organizations.
