I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. It is totally unfair to penalize families of those in jail, it should not cost "$9.99" for a "THREE MINUTE PHONE CALL" !!!!that is over THREE DOLLARS A MINUTE !!! I know because that is what I was charges just a few months ago.

ripping off folks who are in prison for ripping people off or denying basic rights to their victims, is not a good teaching tool. You are acting like 3rd world thieves. The families of prisoners bear the brunt of their imprisonment. WE have to pay for the phone calls, the packages (mostly food so they don't starve), provide clothes, shoes and money for personals. PHONE Companies make enough money off my phone bill every month. NOW the greedy bastards want even more? The simple, correct and MORAL answer is HELL NO!
I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates.

Want to know who else uses people's enforced isolation as an excuse to charge a dollar a minute for phone calls? Fidel Casto. That's right. Fidel uses his power over his citizens to make money off of their desire to stay in touch with family and friends on the outside. Congratulations, phone companies, you and your profiteering have something fundamentally in common with one of the most notorious dictators of our time. You must be so proud.

Please strongly regulate long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Prisoners have no choice over whether their calls are "local" or "long distance". It should also be illegal for the profits from phone service to find their way to prison operators. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates, or better yet, for free. Contact with the outside world is essential to insure that when prisoners get out, they don't end up going back in.

I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. It's not just cruel to make contact between families and their incarcerated members unaffordible, it's unethical, and makes it less likely that prisoners will be able to rejoin society when they are released. That harms everyone.

I urge you to approve new regulations that limit what phone companies can charge inmates for calls. The oligarchic control of access to communications by the prison system and a handful of phone companies needs to stop and reeks of collusion for profits. Individuals in prison are already paying for their crimes as are their families. It makes absolutely no moral or logical sense for families to have to pay at least three times as much to call a loved in prison than it costs me to call and speak with loved ones around the world. Stop allowing the price gouging of America's incarcerated citizens - given our highest in the world incarceration rate, the profits to be made are not insignificant and no one, individuals or corporate, should profit off crime.

Sometimes I wonder if some people should be on the other side of prison walls. It is unconciencible that the price of a phone call for a prisoner to his family is so high. Why are you allowing prisoners to be exploited. These people will have to return to society and contact with friends and family can put them on the road to acting responsibly. How about you acting responsibly too and capping these exhorbitant rates. There are too many sociopaths on the ourside. Please do something about it.
Thankyou.

My son is being held in a detention facility while waiting for bed space in a state-run substance abuse treatment program; I could not afford to put him in a private program, even after what insurance would pay. In the week my son has been detained, I have spent $125.00 on phone calls. It may be two months or more before there is bed space for him in the treatment program. I cannot afford these phone calls, but I absolutely do not want to tell my son he cannot call me. Please help.

I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. .
It goes beyond, the per-minute rate, the basic rate to connect is also beyond reason. Family members have to set up an account and then they are charged to deposit money in the account of the prisoner. At every turn, someone is making some money, simply to allow a prisoner to speak with loved ones. This is just greed at the lowest level, taking advantage of those least able to pay or without means to combat the exorbitant fees.

Loved ones of those that are imprisoned should not be penalized for their efforts to keep in touch with their family and friends. They endure enough suffering and disappointment; additional difficulties should not be made to increase their burden.
Please limit phone rates for prisoners and their loved ones.

What belongs in the public or the private spheres in a society is very much up for debate, so I won't say prisons shouldn't be privatized.. but prisons both publicly funded and privately owned should be monitored for abuses of power. Making the price of a decent-length phone call prohibitively high for people, and not allowing for access to competitive pricing, is abusive to the inmates and their families and to our fiscal anti-trust and monopoly laws. Please don't let this practice continue.

The monopoly that certain telephone companies enjoy in providing voice communication to persons in prison enables those companies to charge unconscionable and exorbitant fees (i.e.$1.00/min). This places a heavy burden on families wanting to communicate with their incarcerated loved ones. I support new regulations that would bring those telecommunication charges in line with what the general public pays.

I have been a prisoner myself and since release, have continued to work to support people who are in prison. For many, many years, these prohibitive and extorsionistic phone rates have prevented many prisoners & their families from communicating. The more connection prisoners continue to have with their families and communities, the greater the likelihood exists that those prisoners, upon release, will much more successfully re-integrate into their communities - resulting in both safer communities and lessening of rates of recidivism.

Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. While there is a reason why people are in prison, making it expensive and difficult for family, friends to be in contact is not beneficial for either side. Part of the process of learning what imprisonment does is communication with loving people to encourage healing and allowing love and support by hearing the voices of family and friends to cause a change in direction for the person in prison.

$1 a minute is cheap next to some of the charges I have seen.
The prisons see using these private payphone companies as a way to raise income. In my business I see the state departments of Public Counsel also being hit with outrageously high collect call bills. These companies add additional fees to the per-minute rate making even a short call very expensive. This costs all taxpayers and is wrong, wrong, wrong.

>>>>P.S. And another thing, ANYTHING that has ever been "privatized" needs to be reassessed. Be warned: When they "privatize" schools, hospitals, nursing homes, and other places, the quality suffers greatly. When they say they are going to "privatize", it means whatever it is, will only be a shell of what it formerly was, when the privateers are finished.
Been to a nursing home lately? Not the kind the 1% get to go to, the kind we 99% (or is it we 47% now?) have to go to. Go to one of those, just to visit an aging relative, and you will be counting the seconds until you leave. They are not run with integrity as their priority. I am sure it's the same situation with prisons.
In my opinion, capitalizing from human suffering, by privatizing institutions that help the human condition, will end with our nation becoming a third world country. Running prisons for profits is a huge mistake. To profit from prisons, one assumes that our society NEEDS more criminals as they totally abandon the concept of rehabilitation. Then the Carl Rovians of the world set out to create conditions in our society of poverty, violence, wars and all things negative.
More prison fodder will be needed to ensure that the prison profiteers stay in business. Who will be the prison fodder? I am guessing it will be our children and future grand children, if not us.
Stop allowing these phone companies to profit from human suffering, in this case, the captive audiences in the prisons. Are not the phone companies obscenely rich enough already?

Phone lines are phone lines. The cost for maintenance of the lines does not increase with the point of origin. The cost for calls should be consistent with whatever local companies are currently charging in the area and you can bet that no one is paying $1.00 per minute for long distance. Legislation should be enacted so that prisons are able to negotiate the most economical plan and not be held hostage by a phone comapny and charged exorbitant fees.

Once again it is the POOR who are being gouged by unethical and inhumane companies who rely more on monopoly control and a literally captive consumer than on the free-market competition that should bring some fairness to this situation. The FCC must regulate these companies as a matter of fairness and smart public policy, since inmates who lose contact with their family support systems are so often lost to a permanent prison subculture. Please do the just thing and the intelligent thing and regulate these companies!

I have personally been affected by this practice. The connection fee is almost $3 plus $1 to use a credit card(the only method of payment accepted.) In addition, to avoid the credit card fee one can open an account for $13 but every time one adds money there is a $5 fee. This is ridiculous and the private companies that provide this service need to be regulated and have caps placed on their fees.

As one whose first ever work-for-wages job was in the telephone business, I am totally in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Imprisoned men and women are paying their debt to society by serving time in prison. They should NOT be the victim of of unreasonable and unfair phone charges just because they are behind bars. Note that they are still American citizens, and they should not be charged any more than other US citizen for comparable phone services. citizens. Please provide regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates.

Those who have made mistakes should not be punished by having limited access to their loved ones. This does NO party ANY good. Obscene profits for a few companies are not worth the price that these prisoners pay. They should pay as much as any other person has to pay to stay in touch with their loved ones.

When children have a parent in prison, they have many psychological issues with which they must deal, partially dependent on their age. Children whose parents are incarcerated often have huge abandonment issues and think it is their fault, that they must be bad. Please don't punish the children, who did nothing wrong, while you're punishing their parent. Sometimes, you have to look at the bigger picture.

Phone rates for prisoners should be affordable, and no one should make money on them other than usual costs. Prisoners generally have little money and it is not fair for their families to have to pay such large costs for phone calls. To gouge a captive audience is really a crime in itself!

PLease help put the reform back into the prison system by helping prisoners stay in touch with their families, that will help reduce recidivism and keep us all safer. Therefore I am disgusted with the current system that profits off of the prison system and strongly and sincerely urge you to enact regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates, the same rates we have access to outside the prison systtem.

I have a brother in prison who suffers from depression just like most of my family. It helps him to hear from us when possible. I am afraid that he will commit suicide just like my 2 sisters did. One was in jail at the time of her suicide and she was not able to call. tese companies are taking advantage of the poor and not caring what happens. Their greed is our loss.

My son's father has been in prison for most of my son's life. My son has only spoken to his father once in the last 10 years. My son is 14 now. If it were more affordable to speak to his father, perhaps my son would feel like he has some sort of connection with his father. It is well known that those inmates that have regular contact with loved ones do better in jail and also are less likely to return to jail. Please take right action in the direction of supporting prisoners towards responsible citizenship. Prisons should not be about punishment. I have worked with many kids who have a mother or father or older brother or a favorite uncle in prison. These kids are so sad because they can't see their loved one often or at all and visiting there is strange. On top of that many can't even talk to them because of the expense. Please set realistic limits on what the phone companies can charge! These excessive charges punish everyone involved: the children, the families, and the prisoners. These kids mark time by when they will get to talk to their person in prison. The prisoners need the hope and motivation they receive from hearing how much the children miss them and want them home. Kids don't make judgements in the same way. Take the high road. Don't let greed add to the heartbreak of the children of prisoners. Greed may be why their loved one is in jail. Sometime we have more similarities than we like to admit.

The whole idea of telecommunications industry de-regulations was to enable true competition throughout the industry that (i) encouraged better customer values, (ii) allowed opportunities for other entrepreneurs, and (iii) encouraged innovations throughout the industry. These prison phone companies are effectively operating as monopolies, and are profiteering from a group of people who are going through relatively desperate times in their lives. Both the inmates and the families feel the levels of desperations, and as such are especially motivated to "cough up" these EXTREME phone call rates. Both the phone companies and the prison management system are shameful in these circumstances. The phone companies have been operating out of pure greed, and the prison managers have failed the public.
Prison time is not and should not be a time of reward for a prisoner. However, our American obsession of "punishment" often involves degradation and inappropriate vulnerabilities imposed upon the prisoner and prisoner's family. There is far too little effort placed upon prisoner reform. Our American rate of incarceration and recividism (spelling?) are glaring evidences of a screwed up American society, a screwed up American legal system, and a really messed up penal system. These phone charges undermine family support, family values, and what should be part of societal reform.

If any individual can get a cell phone contract and pay pennies per minute why would a contract for a thousand or more people ( ie. the inmates of a prison ) be paying these kinds of rates for a land line? This is a disgusting business practice. These are some of the most disadvantaged people in our country and we have no right to economically abuse them. They are already paying for their crimes by being incarcerated. I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. I really don't understand why it has to be so expensive for a prisoner to speak to a family member or friend. We are not talking about monitoring calls, we are talking about how expensive they should be. My phone company charges me 5 cents a minute for long distance and unlimited local calls for a set fee. Why should I have to pay 20 times my long distance amount to speak to someone in prison. It just doesn't make sense.

Allowing companies to charge prisoners as much as they want for telephone calls means fewer can afford to talk with their families. Cutting the ability of prisoners to communicate with their families diminishes their chances of a positive renewal of ties upon their release and decreases their ability to make family-supported decisions on their behavior while they are in prison.

The cost of maintaining contact by phone with a loved one in jail or prison is outrageous. This is a punishment for the inmate's family even more than for the inmate him or herself. The privatizing of everything connected with the criminal justice system is absolutely disgusting, evidence of the widespread corruption in our government generally. Many of those incarcerated are far more innocent of evil-doing than are the legislators and corporations that make money off of them and their families.

It is crucial that the FCC act to protect the right of low-income families to have phone calls with their loved ones who are in pretrial detention or prison. It is especially important developmentally for children to be able to continue their relationships with their mothers and fathers. I am strongly in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges and collect call charges in the prison and jail phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates.
Even when corrections systems impose a calling card system, it often is family members who are paying for the phone calls. Their resources already are stretched by caring for the children of the incarcerated parent. Family contact increases parole success and helps children adjust better emotionally, socially and scholastically. It will help not only these families, but the larger communities, to limit fees to reasonable amounts.
Thank you for your consideration.

Incarcerated people didn't do a thing to telephone companies. They ought to be shamed for the rates they are charging families. Maybe a call from mom will have some influence or hearing from one of their children or grandchildren. Give them a chance to hear a message of love or encouragement.

I am certainly in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. This is of great importance to both prisoners and their families; children really must have access to their parents in prison.

To reduce recidivism we want prisoners to maintain family ties and a stake in the community. We do need to screen for illegal activities. Authorized outside contacts should be given discounted, if not free, phone calls toward this goal.

It is appalling that family members, some of them very poor people, may have to pay more than $1 a minute to talk by phone to their loved ones in prison. Regulations must be put in place to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Justice requires that regulations allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. I call on you to take action to cap exorbitant rates.

I know two families that are paying these rates to speak to their loved ones in prison. It seems so unfair that I can speak to my daughter and grandchildren in Ireland for 1.5 cents per minute while they have to pay outrageous bills to speak to their children. Please correct this injustice.

I could have used the standard template that they gave me for this email message, but instead, I'll write my own. I'm a social worker. I've seen my clients' parents head to deleterious effects on the child. These children need more than ever to hear their parents words from inside. To be honest, many parents not only give words of encouragement but words of caution to prohibit their children from making the same mistakes. These phone charges are ridiculous and prohibit the children from calling. Please fix this. Please make these calls affordable. Please see that there is more harm that good from these calls.

I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. Having had family members in prison, I can tell you the cost of calls is absurd. We blew the whistle on them in Georgia and made some progress, but not nearly enough. The operator always says very rapidly how much the cost will be per minute. Try and multiply her info, if you managed to get it, by 3 or 5 or 10 minutes. Few people are fast enough to do this. The result can be a budget breaking phone bill with no recourse. Add to this the socio-economic status of most families of inmates and you effectively either put them in debt or eliminate calls all together. Yes, costs must be changed to make them affordable. Thank you.

I was shocked to hear that phone companies can charge as much as $1 a minute or more for long distance calls from prison, and that prisoners and their families have no choice but to pay such outrageous fees if they are to be able to talk by phone. It doesn't seem fair to gauge the families of prisoners for private profit. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates.

This is to express my stroing support for new regulations that would limit what phone companies can charge inmates for calls. It is disturbing to read about the outrageous long distance charges typical of the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that do not further punish the incarcerated and their families. Communication between prisoners and their loved ones is essential.

I am deeply disturbed by the excessive long distance charges imposed by the prison phone industry. When these charges make it harder for incarcerated people to keep in touch with family members, they create an obstacle to the maintenance of family ties. This erosion of family ties is not good for families and not good for our society when prisoners are released. I strongly support regulations to limit these charges. Please limit telephone company profiteering and allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates.

This also needs to cover calls from inmates to their family, when they are in their respective county jails. I've had to pay a huge bill, because I took a call and it was my childs one phone call allowed, letting me know where he/she was. Also to let us know the update from their court apearance.
This must be changed. Thankyou in advance.

Please implement regulations to end the extortionate rates charged by the prison phone industry. Families of prisoners already suffer in so many ways for their loved ones' crimes. To add to the financial burdens most of them suffer so that private investors can profit is unconscionable, even if the states get a cut. States should find other ways to recoup the expense of their correctional systems. These expenses will decrease if prisoners and their families are able to maintain communications–when they're able to support each other the prisoners have a better chance of not re-offending when they get out, and their children are less likely to get in trouble themselves. We talk a lot about valuing families. Here's an opportunity to show that we mean it.

Please put further restrictions on prison phone companies ability to charge unreasonably high rates. It is immoral to have companies making outrageous profits off of incarcerated people. The current situation appears to be that these phone companies are taking advantage of the fact that these folks are trapped behind bars and cannot walk home to have a chat with their family. Please put some limits on those phone companies!

I totally endorse the following statement because of my personal experience with paying for expensive telephone calls from an incarcerated family member over a period of two years a decade ago. There is no excuse for the cost of such conversations deterring people from being able to give support and encouragement to loved ones who are in prison:

I am very much in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. I understand that the phone companies are capitalist enterprises and not nonprofit organizations, but if this country wants to break the cycle of filling its prisons with generation after generation of criminals, it would do well to start with making it easier for family ties to stay strong. Connections to mothers and fathers go a long way towards giving children better futures, even under circumstances like this. And they definitely make it less likely for the incarcerated to become recidivists once they're released, since it keeps strong in their minds just how much they have to live for on the outside. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates.
Thank you.

I am in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. A significant part of the prison population – and their families on "the outside" – are low-income. Paying one's debt to society should not involve incurring a debt to a private phone company. In addition, I'd like to see the US and individual states get OUT of the prison business. It's a shame that we have so many of our citizens in prison anyway without rapacious and predatory "entrepreneurs" making money on them.

I strongly support regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. Having regular calls and visits from family can make people far less likely to go back to prison. I believe that it is in the country's best interest for the FCC to regulate the rates prison telephone companies charge and make sure they are fair.

This apparently is not a concern over content of the calls, so can only be taken as a move to wring more $$ out of people who are already very financially dis-advantaged.
The following should be part of the message to the companies: Now that this has come to the attention of the public, you deserve whatever negative publicity comes of this and you need to revise your rates, making them in line with those for the general public - COME ON, why are the prison population and their families a target for higher rates to make you more profit??... Have you no shame/no conscience?

Theses obscene charges that allow kids and other family members to keep in touch with the imprisoned seem designed to make sure the imprisoned will sign up for a return trip as soon as they are freed. This will keep the outsourced companies alive and well, but it surely is not in the public interest. The public interest is what the FCC should be very sensitive to.

PLEAZE regulate the three phone companies to charge reasonable rates. Such high rates punish families of prisoners and add another layer of punishment to the prisoners that works against their rehabilitation. It is well documented that many incarcerated people and their families suffer from poverty. To further punish these people by charging well more than the cost of these calls is unethical, immoral and I would wonder about illegal, as it discriminates against a specific population of people.
It is well past time to end this horrible practice where a few profit but many suffer. To continue to allow such draconian practices further erodes our credibility in the world and our ability to question inhumane prison practices in other countries.

Family involvement decreases recidivism. The distance sometimes prevents frequent visits and the phone charges are prohibitive. All of which reduces the ability for the family to remain a positive factor.

Caps should be placed on what long distance companies can charge for priso calls.
1. This clearly serves the public interest. Recidivism is less when inmates stay in contact with loved ones.
2. It's the right thing to do. It doesn't cost phone companies $1/minute to provide this service.
Profiteering on the backs of children, parents, and spouses–is just wrong.

The rehabilitation of incarcerated individuals is enhanced by the ability of inmates to communicate with their loved ones on the outside. Obviously, there is a benefit to children and other family members of inmates, as well. Charging obscene rates for using the phone system is a barrier to this. I urge you to regulate and limit the charges for inmate calls, thereby helping the inmate's rehabilitation, and lowering the rate of recidivism and cost to the prison system.

This issue has bugged me for years. Phone companies and States are profiting off of the families of prisoners. These families are being victimized twice; by the loved one who broke the law, and now by the State and phone companies that seek to profit whenever the family receives a phone call from prison.
That's right, AT&T, Verizon , etc. we all use their phones and services and pay less than these victimized families. Please pass regulations limiting what can be charged families to receive a call from prisoner relatives. 10 cents a minute is more fair than the current $1/minute and more in keeping with the actual cost of delivering the service. Thank you.

What we need is to help convicted criminals change or we will be paying for them to be kept in prison for their whole lives, or they will be successfully committing crimes without being caught.
We know that age helps, and so does family, and keeping communication within the family will help also, and may also help prevent another generation of criminals growing up.
Therefore it is important that prison inmates must have affordable telephone access to their familes - it is in society's interest that it should be so.
Please ensure that the proposed regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry are implemented so that family members will be to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates.

It is outrageous that relatives (including children) can't afford to talk to their loved ones in prison because the phone rates are $1 a minute. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates.

Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. It makes no sense for a company to try and take advantage of people who are in prison. Understandably, they are there for a reason, and I know its not supposed to be fun, as it is a punishment, but retailers making money off of them is something totally different and makes no sense. Clearly it can only help to keep prisoners calmer and more productive when they get to visit with their loved ones. The ones on the other end of the phone are not prisoners and both parties deserve the respect to communicate with others they care about.

These and just about all phone companies need better regulation. For a further example, the idea that cell phone agreements can be changed at will by the companies yet they are so binding to the consumers is obviously wrong to everyone but the FCC.
It's time to properly regulate these inmates and their families is just wrong.
Please start representing the consumers.

Wow. I just found out about this egregious practice. As a social worker who interacts with some incarcerated clients I am just appalled that governments are allowing this over-pricing of services - essentially making a few people more wealthy while causing more suffering for those whose lives are already filled with miseries. I beg you - enough of this example of pure greed - please bring these phone charges in line with what most people pay (which is still quite high anyway).
Thank you.
Sincerely,
Deborah Scott

I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. These are often families that can least afford high phone bills. Even kids with parents in prison deserve the right to talk with their parent or loved one. It's kind of sick not to regulate these companies.

I urge you to implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. Please, show compassion for the kids on the outside who wait every day for a call that frequently cannot come because of the exorbitant rates being charged today. It's not their fault; don't help punish them too. Thank you for your consideration.

Greed and corruption may be legal in many cases, but that doesn't make it right. There ought to be a law against gouging people by using a monopoly. That is what most utilities do, and it is especially bad since they were deregulated. I don't know anyone who is in prison, so this doesn't affect me. I just see this as a wrong that should be righted.

I have no doubt that these ridiculous charges were put in place because not many people are sympathetic to the cause of those in prison, and odds were highly unlikely that anyone would bother to challenge them. I'm glad people are finally speaking out, and I hope this petition goes a long way in making a change that is long overdue.

Commission rebates are a perfectly cromulent offering as part of a business proposal, but it is horrifying to think that states are going with these companies strictly because of the high commissions they're getting in return. If states do not have the budget to fund prisons without these obscene kickbacks, they have no business running that much prison.

While I was in jail, it was very hard for me to talk with my family. I had no money for a phone card, and my parents couldn't pay the fees. I had to trade food in order to talk to my family, and that is not a good situation. Lower the fees so inmates can talk to their families, so they can remember why they DON'T want to be incarcerated!

Constitution of the United States
Article. I
Section. 9.
No Preference shall be given by any Regulation of Commerce or Revenue to the Ports of one State over those of another; nor shall Vessels bound to, or from, one State, be obliged to enter, clear, or pay Duties in another.
new report from Prison Policy Initiative:
Prison phone companies are awarded these monopolies through bidding processes in which they submit proposals to the state prison systems; in all but eight states, these contracts include promises to pay "commissions" – in effect, kickbacks – to states, in either the form of a percentage of revenue, a fixed upfront payment, or a combination of the two.
These prison phone companies are part of a growing sector of the economy that profits off public responsibility. From food to health care to the entire prison, more and more elements of incarceration are being run with an eye for maximizing profit.

The poor, the imprisoned – these are people who are easy prey to the worst of society's corporate offenders. The FCC owes them and all American citizens its protection. For too long the FCC has relinquished its responsibilities allowing communications monopolies, not fighting to balance rhetoric between opposing political parties. The results have been disasterous. I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. As a family counselor, I strongly support regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement such regulations. It is critical to a humane society that family members be able to speak to their incarcerated loved ones - mothers to their son or daughter, children to their parent. It is cruel to place high financial penalties on innocent family members who want only to hear the voice of an imprisoned loved one.

It's all too easy to forget that our jailed citizens are still that: citizens. They still deserve the basic human rights and equal treatments under the law that applies to other citizens, foreign visitors and legal aliens. We already have them in jail. Isn't that punishment enough? Do we have to find a way to profit from them as well that belies our concept of a Just and Humane society?

This is just wrong! Please implement some type of regulation or cap on long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. Sometimes this is only thing keeping the person incarcerated surviving and the family member on the outside going & hopeful that they will see their love one, again. Kids/Love ones need to be able to have some type of reliable communication with their incarcerated family member. The individual that is incarcerated is being punished, don't punish their love ones by allowing phone companies to charge outrageous fees just because they want to communicate with their family members. Please regulate the phone industries, so that love one can say hopeful and connect with the outside.

Local calls from county jails are as prisons. I realize there is a capitol equipment investment in these services. In business we expect a project to tar in 1 to 5 years. Some of these projects have paid for themselves in as little as 6 months. That is grudging. Thank you.

Corporate greed against prisoners and poor families really does encapsulate the now evolved philosophy of "free enterprise" doesn't it? Blood money, pure and simple. Literally squeezing the life out of people, for profit. This, after all, is the BUSINESS of Republicorps. Greed ueber alles.

If there is any hope for preventing recidivision in our prison system, it is by stregthening the bonds of love and support provided by family members and friends of the prisoners. We need to encourage prisoners to reach out to those who care about their future happiness, not gouge them to enhance the profits of those who imprison them by charging outrageous phone fees. It is in society's best interest to encourage this outreach. Please stop the unconsionable practice of overcharging prisoners for phone service.

PLEASE STOP THESE COMPANIES FROM PROFITING BY CHARGING HIGH RATES TO THE UNFORTUNATE PEOPLE WHO HAVE BECOME INCARCERATED .
THIS PROFITEERING DOES - NOTHING - TO HELP IMPROVE THE QUALITY OF LIFE IN OUR SOCIETY - IT IS CRUEL TO ALLOW THESE COMPANIES TO PRACTICE CRUELTY IN ORDER TO PROFIT FROM THE MISFORTUNE OF THE IMPRISONED AND THEIR FAMILIES & LOVED ONES ~ REGARDLESS IF THEY ARE GUILTY OF A CRIME OR JUST IMPRISONED BECAUSE MANY PRISONS ARE RUN FOR PROFIT ~ WHICH ITSELF IS A 'CREUL & UNUSUAL ' PHENOMENON THAT MUST INEVITABLY BE 'DONE AWAY ' WITH.

This is part and parcel of the travesty of privatized prisons. Polls consistantly show that despite the global cororatocracy 's persistant mind control, the American people are waking up to the knowledge of corporate take over of all that is decent and just in this country. Please, please regulate the prison phones! My mom had to pay lots of money to speak to my brother, but she managed it. That weekly call kept them both calm during that horrible year.

I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. It's crucially important for society that when inmates are released from prison they integrate successfully into society and do not commit more crimes. One of the best ways to reduce recidivism is to promote healthy connections between inmates and their families. Charging exorbitantly for phone calls between inmates in their families stands in the way of these critical connections.

It is an outrage - I have basically free and unlimited local and long-distance calling with my plan and should have been able to use it when my son was recently housed in Fairfax County Jail. Instead, I had to set up a call account at $50.00 a pop to enable him to call my home number and only that number. I had to set up separate accounts if he wanted or needed to call anyone else.
Not only did I have to deposit money into the account, I was charged a service fee for each account for the pleasure!! Stop this outrage.

Our society has a lot to gain by helping families stay connected while a parent is incarcerated. Research has demonstrated children do better when they are able to maintain communication with their parents. The FCC can easily provide support without expending any dollars. Please limit phone companies ability to exploit families in peril.

As a proud American, I know the FCC is unflinching in its desired for public safety in both technology and its affects on us, the Public. Knowing this, I feel placing a cap on long-distance charges for prison calls not only falls inline with the FCC's commitment to the Public but also insures our safety. As damning as it is for people to commit crimes, few deserve life imprisonment and allowing short-term prisoners to keep in frequent contact with family and friends cements their desire to stay out of prison. And if this wasn't enough incentive, wage stagnation has increased within the last decade, making simple acts of placing calls conflict with the Public's basic needs. By placing this cap, you're not only helping prisoners avoid prison in the future but helping people fuel the economy's resurgence.

The rates from prisons should be be the same or less than those elsewhere. A private sector that profits from an incarcerated population leads to more incarcerated citizens.

I have become aware of the problem of high long distance rates for calls to prison inmates. It seems abusive. And families with loved ones in prison are most likely to be the poorest of our citizens. They should not be taken advantage of. Please support regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry!

I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. As a rehabilitated convict and a citizen I have often found it morally deplorable and legally questionae that our iconically promised phone call has always been subject strenuous by the minuets charges. These charges not only obstruct the ability for loved ones to communicate, but potentially for the convict (either is prison or county jail) to pursue their own legal options, whether through meetings with their public defender or otherwise.

I currently must pay $6.95 every time I add money to my prepaid account -no matter if I add $50 or $200 which is the maximum allowed.The costs are so high yet the quality is very poor and calls get dropped frequently and they say they will reimburse you but never do. And, I am not using a cell phone.

I am urging you to cap long distance rates on phone calls by prisoners. Prisoners are with few exceptions people can not afford much, but allowing them to keep in touch with their families provides one of the greatest opportunities to improve their chances of successful re-entry into society and to reduce recidivism. It's neither fair no good public policy to gouge prisoners on their long distance rates.

Allowing and encouraging prisoners to keep in contact with their families goes a long way towards their eventual reintegration in society. Charging outrageous phone rates for calls placed from within prisons is not going to help anyone - except the profiteering companies. It also inflicts unjustified suffering on the children and loved ones of incarcerated individuals.

The idea of gouging for phone calls for inmates is obscene, and not essentially different from a megacorporation holding a monopoly and hiking prices through the roof just because they can get away with it. "Because they can get away with it" seems to be as good a reason as any for some business practices today, and it's great that the global community is realizing their voices can be heard, and provide a solid reason as to why some things shouldn't be that way.
Why not? Because a child shouldn't be deprived of hearing a parent's voice for the purpose of filling a phone company's coffers. Because profit for that phone company can still be maintained without the unbelievably high rates. I could go on, but I think that's quite sufficient. Please, help to put a stop to this practice, and others similar, whenever it's possible.

It's easy to assume that everyone in prison is a hardened evil criminal that deserves bad things, but not all of them are like that. I've had friends, good people, go to prison because they did something without thinking. They don't deserve having the little money they can earn ripped from their hands just because they want to speak with their families.

I urge you to regulate the charges made to prisoners and their families by companies which control phone calls in prisons. Family contact is important if prisoners are to be rehabilitated, and many prisoners and their families are poor. They should not pay more than others do for phone calls. In fact, it would be better if their charges were less than what most people pay.

There is no reason, other than greed and profiteering on others' misfortune, for the rates for prisoners to talk to their families to be any higher than mine. Fair play is the American way. The fact that these people committed a crime, and are currently paying their debt for it, is irrelevant to the established tariffs.
I urge you strongly to eliminate this inequity immediately, and hope you will consider levying fines equal to the overcharges against the companies who have been robbing people for years and getting away with it.

I cannot see a justification for these extremely high rates. These companies provide normally-piced service outside of prison and apparently make a reasonable profit or else they would go out of business. So there is no reason why they cannot do so here. This is one of the key roles of government - to ensure the playing field is fair when one party has uneven power. In this case, the phone companies have the power to be greedy so they are. Please stop them from gouging people who have no other options. While you are at it, I hope to can fine them for collective excessive profits during their history of abuse. Otherwise there is no deterent from them trying to abuse again.

As a society with a criminal justice system that's out of control, incarcerating a shameful percentage of the population, mostly for non-violent crimes, we need to do some critical examination and reevaluation of that system. Two facets of the system are uncontroversially in need of reform:
- inmates being isolated from their families and communities, which reinforces anti-social tendencies, makes reform and reentry near impossible while tying prisoners more closely to each other, perpetuating criminality.
- a private sector which uses the literally captive audience of prison inmates to make outrageous profits at the expense of prisoners and their families.
The current phone system that prisoners have access to perpetuates both of these conditions, by making phone communication inaccessibly expensive for many prisoners, while gauging prisoners and their families to make windfall profits for monopoly phone companies. There's no justification for the high costs of prison phone communication.
The most expedient way to remedy this situation would be to cap the amount that can be charged by prison phone companies. Please consider using your power as a regulatory agency to do so.
Thank you for your time.

I don't believe in discriminating against prisoners to make more money for the prison phone industry, or that the industry has the right to add to the inmates punishments. The prisoners are being punished legally by being incarcerated. They should be allowed to speak to their loved ones for a fair and reasonable amount of money. Please cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry.

It is wrong to allow a monopoly provider to harm consumers by keeping prices artificially high. We don't allow it in other areas. I remember the breakup of AT&T/Bell companies, which was to protect consumers from the exercise of monopoly power in the telephone market. Where the free market has failed, we need regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. Thank you.

I am urging you to cap long distance phone rates for those incarcerated in prison to the same rates paid by free people. Any company making a profit on incarcerated people has an incentive to incarcerate more people for longer. This is immoral, and in the country with the highest incarceration rate in the world already, unworkable. Please act now to stop this insanity.

In a day when phone technology has become affordable to most people why would phone company's seek $1.00 per minute for the incarcerated to talk with loved ones. This is heaping on punishment upon families already in many cases struggling for life's basics. It also reflects the greed of the phone companies when they levy these prices on those they know will have no means of contesting these fees. I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates.

I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. My mother spent a fortune in phone charges when my brother was incarcerated. I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. The U.S. has way more people in prison than any of our modern industrialized neighbors - to the point that one has to ask, "what's wrong with this picture?" and ponder whether the answer is that too many companies profit off people being prison and mostly at the expense of taxpayers. We should remove all corporate incentives to put people in prison.

Why should families beenalizes and made to suffer e en more because of circumstances. You are taking advantage – shamelessly so– of a vulnerable segment of our society. Apparently nothing matters but money any more, but there is a lot of moral outrage here, and you need to step up and do the right thing; people are now aware and outraged!

I have worked within a state prison in the past. I have worked with the inmates while they are in prison, and after their release. I have seen the serious damage done to all our society by the inept control and confinement of incarcerated individuals.
Acquiring undue profits from this restricted and underrepresented customer base is corrupt regulation, and bad policy! It is in fact, outright theft, yet currently allowed and legal under FCC rules! This FCC policy, permitting additional undue hardship for families of incarcerated individuals, must be changed!

Shame on you! People make mistakes and Families suffer as well as the incarcerated person(s). How dare you add to the suffering with OUTRAGEOUS PRICES just to hear a loved ones voice. What if it was one of your family members! Would you want this type of charge just to hear their voice???

The privatization of prisons was an obscenely bad idea. Those who see every government function as a revenue stream they can usurp are textbook sociopaths who have no business being in positions of power and responsibility.
My stepson is incarcerated, thanks to a psychotic Federal prosecutor, and he has to pay for EVERYTHING, including abysmally substandard meals, as well as phone calls.

I work with detained juveniles who often cannot talk with their parents for weeks at a time because their families cannot afford to pay $10 per call just to connect from our facility. Kids need their families, especially when they are incarcerated; when they lose that contact, they become depressed and unmotivated at a time when they need to believe they can change. Please do something to regulate these costs so that they are fair and the phone companies cannot plunder vulnerable, stressed families by continuing to charge these obscene, unreasonable fees.

Please cap long-distance charges in the prison phone industry so that prisoners and their families can afford to talk by phone with each other.
These calls from prisoners to the outside world make the difference in prisoners maintaining their sanity and their dignity.
Please do the right thing. THANK YOU.

I see no reason why prison inmates and/or their families should pay disproportionately higher rates for telephone calls than the larger public. They are paying their debt to society by losing their freedom. We hope that they stay our of prison once released. Contacts with their family will help this. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates.

The extortionate prices charged by the prison phone system effectively prevent poor, and even middle class families from communicating regularly with incarcerated family members. Not only is this a punitive measure for people OUTSIDE the prison, it confirms the opinion of many inmates that the prison system itself is unjust, and that it seeks to exploit rather than help prisoners.
I support new FCC regulations that will limit phone companies from overcharging inmates and their families.

Think about the fact that some families may potentially resort to criminal activities to support thier families due to the cost of contacting loved ones in jail. Talk about a viscose cycle. And people pay enough taxes to support prison systems. If a company is making revenue of the system that money should be going to support and improving the prison system instead of lining the pockets of corperations. This consistant theme of corporate greed is shameful.

Gentlemen:

This "shooting ducks in a barrel" is bogus. Makes me wonder who the real crooks are. Unless the prisoner is a habitual offender who would warrant the extra difficulty, let's be reasonable on the cost of of maintaining family connections.

Prisons should not be profit centers. They exist to segregate dangerous criminals and to punish the many people who have committed rather minor infractions of the law. The intent should be to return those people to the general population having learned not to commit such infractions. Regular contact with family helps to reduce recidivism. Surely keeping the cost of such contact as low as possible is beneficial. Corporate profit should not trump the cost of contact. Please regulate the cost of prisoner contact for the benefit of the prisoners, not the corporations.

I have worked in a maximum security state prison for over 19 years now, and I am appalled at this sort of profiteering–abusing the families of convicted felons by forcing them to accept these terrible prices. In fact, this profiteering leads to trafficking of cell-phones and other high security threat items. THESE PREDATORY PRACTICES MUST BE STOPPED!! PLEASE clen this mess up. . . .

People and communities are strongly in favor of fair, just and empathetic regulations on long distance charges in the prison system phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members or closed friends to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates.
Poor and vulnerable people or even those that are being accused of or considered to commit unlawful acts should not be exploited or deprive of fundamental or essential civil or human rights. Furthermore, allowing incarcerated individuals to link to families would overall be beneficial to mental aspects of people, families and communities, and therefore, would benefit the individual, families, the prison system and societies as a whole.

Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. I have taught many students who had a parent who was incarcerated, so have seen first hand how this separation affects their schoolwork and emotional well-being. Contact with their child can also help the prisoner in the rehabilitation process. The vast majority of such families are low- income if not living under the poverty level. Most cannot afford the current rates being charged.

When my brother was in prison there were times when a 3 minute phone call was $30. It was absurd. And a true monopoly. If you didn't use their system- where I'm sure there were great kickbacks- you didn't talk to your family person!

The rates currently being charged are far in excess of what is needed for cost recovery plus a REASONABLE profit. The companies that comprise the prison phone industry have decided that gouging families and friends of inmates is something reasonable because there is no governing regulation to hold them in check. Their charges are usurious and their demand to establish prepaid accounts instead of including charges on the caller's phone bills is totally unreasonable.
It is long past time to rein in the actions of these companies.

I am enthusiastically stunned to hear that you treat families of criminals as if they had committed crimes. A little girl who wants to talk to her mother for five minutes every other day would have to pay $75/month. For barely more than half that, $40/month, I can get unlimited, nationwide service on a mobile phone!
The only thing criminal here is your policy.

I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. Many people turn to lawlessness due to the heartless conditions they find around them. When authorities deal with them in fairness and justice, it gives them something to trust and believe in– something they don't find enough of in their lives. To allow and encourage heart-connections with friends or family members without being exploited by for-profit enterprises is a symbol of caring, maybe just a drop-in-the-bucket– or maybe a seed planted to later bear fruit in a revitalized life. Breaking those heart connections is a way of insuring isolation and the kind of soul-death that is the CAUSE of lawless living.

We have just been informed of the current practice by 3 phone companies, Securus Technologies, GlobalTel Link, and Century Link, of charging excessively high rates for telephone calls between incarcerated individuals and their loved ones in 45 states across the US. As customers ourselves of one of these companies, we are deeply offended by this discriminatory practice. Since the FCC has the responsibility to oversee the rates which telephoine companies charge, we are asking the FCC to take action on behalf of ALL Americans to put an end to this outrageous practice. Thank you for protecting all of our rights!

I am in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry.
Incarcerated individuals who can maintain ties with their communities – families, friends, and employers – are more likely to be welcomed home after release, less apt to re-offend, and will improve their chances for better-paying, more meaningful employment upon release.
These ties can be sustained through written, verbal, and personal communication, but by far the most important is a phone call. Sadly, while for the rest of us phone calls have become increasingly cheap and easy, for prisoners they have become more difficult and costly.
These high costs and barriers result from a prison industry that must promote recidivism over rehabilitation in order to continue growing, and telephone companies that charge too much for simple phone calls home.
These conditions create major financial burdens for prisoners' families. Thank you in advance for implementing regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates!

Please heed the words of Christ and show mercy and support for "the least of these" from Matthew 25:
The Judgment
31 "But when (Y)the Son of Man comes in His glory, and all the angels with Him, then (Z)He will sit on His glorious throne. 32 All the nations will be (AA) gathered before Him; and He will separate them from one another, (AB)as the shepherd separates the sheep from the goats; 33 and He will put the sheep (AC)on His right, and the goats (AD)on the left.
34 "Then the King will say to those on His right, 'Come, you who are blessed of My Father, (AE) inherit the kingdom prepared for you (AF)from the foundation of the world. 35 For (AG)I was hungry, and you gave Me something to eat; I was thirsty, and you gave Me something to drink; (AH)I was a stranger, and you invited Me in; 36 (AI)naked, and you clothed Me; I was sick, and you (AJ)visited Me; (AK)I was in prison, and you came to Me.' 37 Then the righteous will answer Him, 'Lord, when did we see You hungry, and feed You, or thirsty, and give You something to drink? 38 And when did we see You a stranger, and invite You in, or naked, and clothe You? 39 When did we see You sick, or in prison, and come to You?' 40 (AL)The King will answer and say to them, 'Truly I say to you, (AM)to the extent that you did it to one of these brothers of Mine, even the least of them, you did it to Me.'
41 "Then He will also say to those on His left, '(AN) Depart from Me, accursed ones, into the (AO)eternal fire which has been prepared for (AP)the devil and his angels; 42 for I was hungry, and you gave Me nothing to eat; I was thirsty, and you gave Me nothing to drink; 43 I was a stranger, and you did not invite Me in; naked, and you did not clothe Me; sick, and in prison, and you did not visit Me.' 44 Then they themselves also will answer, 'Lord, when did we see You hungry, or thirsty, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not [e]take care of You?' 45 Then He will answer them, 'Truly I say to you, to the extent that you did not do it to one of the least of these, you did not do it to Me.' 46 These will go away into (AQ)eternal punishment, but the righteous into (AR)eternal life."

I am enthusiastically in favor of regulations to cap long distance charges in the prison phone industry. Please implement regulations that will allow family members to speak to their incarcerated loved ones at affordable rates. I know from first hand experience with only the jail system I have had to pay a minimum of $25 upfront to take a phone call to find out a relative has been arrested and needs to be bailed out. I only use the service once because they get released and the balance expires after so much time so I feel like I get robbed because I do not use the rest of the time I paid for and they do not reimburse me. Basically 3 times I have paid $25 and only talked on the phone for probably 5 minutes. I believe that should be considered theft for taking my money for unused services. This is just with the jail system so I only imagine how bad it is with the prison system. This is unfair illegal and should be stopped immediately.

Global Tel Link! The bane of my existence. How am I supposed to keep a relationship with my fiance alive when I can't afford the talk time I need with him? This exploiting of inmate's loved ones HAS to stop. It is unfair, cruel and wrong. He has made mistakes but he deserves a chance, including the chance to have regular contact with his loved ones that will help him keep his spirits up and not get pulled into the belly of the beast.
