Recognition for your training

SQA's robust quality assurance processes gives employers the confidence their qualification is fit for purpose. Your staff will also receive a certificate to recognise their achievement. In addition, SQA's Credit Rating service allows businesses to have their qualifications and training programmes positioned on the Scottish Credit and Qualifications Framework (SCQF).

Supporting You

From the very start, you will receive high quality customer service and support. You will work closely with a named account manager to guide you through the process and answer any questions you may have.

“Our company values are to create self-worth and empowerment, without going the extra mile and investing in our people that won't happen. Working in partnership with SQA has given our business a strong foundation for growth. The clear progression routes have even unearthed a few diamonds in the rough”.
