

Friendship's Shadows

Women's Friendship and the Politics of
Betrayal in England, 1640–1705

Penelope Anderson

EDINBURGH
University Press

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Series Editor's Preface	x
Introduction: Friendship, Gender, Politics	1
Part I: Friendship and Betrayal
1 Indemnity for Enemies, Oblivion for Friends: Changing Political Allegiances in the English Civil Wars	27
2 "Obligation here is injury": Exemplary Friendship in Katherine Philips's Coterie	69
3 The Garden of Epicurus and the Garden of Eden: Friendship's Counsel in De rerum natura and Order and Disorder	114
Part II: The Rewritten Legacy
4 "Women, like princes, find no real friends": The Manuscript Tradition and Katherine Philips's Reputation	153
5 Honoring Friendship's Shadows: Marriage and Political Reputation in Lucy Hutchinson's Writings	189
6 Covert Politics and Separatist Women's Friendship: Margaret Cavendish and Mary Astell	222
Bibliography	260
Index	282