

GERMANY AND
THE BLACK DIASPORA

Points of Contact, 1250–1914

Edited by

Mischa Honeck, Martin Klimke, and Anne Kuhlmann

berghahn

NEW YORK • OXFORD

www.berghahnbooks.com

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	vii
Acknowledgments	x
Introduction	1
Mischa Honeck, Martin Klimke, and Anne Kuhlmann

PART I. SAINTS AND SLAVES, MOORS AND HESSIANS

1. The Calenberg Altarpiece: Black African Christians in Renaissance Germany	21
Paul H. D. Kaplan
2. The Black Diaspora in Europe in the Fifteenth and Sixteenth Centuries, with Special Reference to German-Speaking Areas	38
Kate Lowe
3. Ambiguous Duty: Black Servants at German Ancien Régime Courts	57
Anne Kuhlmann
4. Real and Imagined Africans in Baroque Court Divertissements	74
Rashid-S. Pegah
5. From American Slaves to Hessian Subjects: Silenced Black Narratives of the American Revolution	92
Maria I. Diedrich

PART II. FROM ENLIGHTENMENT TO EMPIRE

6. The German Reception of African American Writers in the Long Nineteenth Century	115
Heike Paul

7. “On the Brain of the Negro”: Race, Abolitionism, and Friedrich Tiedemann’s Scientific Discourse on the African Diaspora Jeannette Eileen Jones	134
8. Liberating Sojourns? African American Travelers in Mid-Nineteenth-Century Germany Mischa Honeck	153
9. Global Proletarians, Uncle Toms, and Native Savages: Popular German Race Science in the Emancipation Era Bradley Naranch	169
10. We Shall Make Farmers of Them Yet: Tuskegee’s Uplift Ideology in German Togoland Kendahl L. Radcliffe	187
11. Education and Migration: Cameroonians Schoolchildren and Apprentices in Germany, 1884–1914 Robbie Aitken	213
Afterword. Africans in Europe: New Perspectives Dirk Hoerder	231
Selected Bibliography	241
Notes on Contributors	249
Index	252