

Contents

- Introduction: Rethinking the Early Modern Spanish Woman, from Victim to Warrior 1
SUSAN L. FISCHER AND FREDERICK A. DE ARMAS

Part I. Women as Dramatic Subjects

- Self-Fashion Show: Women in the Plays of Cervantes and Significant Others 33
EDWARD H. FRIEDMAN
- Chained by Her Words: Calderón's La gran Cenobia and the Perils of the Sublime 50
FREDERICK A. DE ARMAS
- Folklore as Queer: Vélez de Guevara's La serrana de la Vera 66
EMILIE L. BERGMANN
- Mujer vestida de hombre* to the Extreme: Catalina de Erauso in Montalbán's La monja alférez 89
TERESA SCOTT SOUFAS

Part II. Women in the Theater: Actors, Producers, Constructed Subjectivity

- Career-Oriented Women in the Theater: María Álvarez,
Bárbara Coronel, Fabiana Laura 105
ELIZABETH CRUZ PETERSEN
- Women in Charge: Autoras and Actresses in the Reign of Felipe V 119
SUSAN PAUN DE GARCÍA

Lope de Vega's "Warring" Female Characters ISAAC BENABU	140
Part III. Women in Literature and Culture: Poets, Readers, Holy Subjects
"Entre las Otras Sois Vos": The Cancionero de Herberay and Women's Cultural Production EMILY C. FRANCOMANO	159
Sense(s) and Sensibility in Two Sonnets of Catalina Clara Rodríguez de Guzmán CHARLES VICTOR GANELIN	172
Women's Vision, Women's Truth: Teresa of Ávila's Defense of Women's Access to God GILLIAN T. W. AHLGREN	186
Teresa of Ávila and Jeanne Guyon Read the Song of Songs SHARON D. VOROS	203
Part IV. Teresa of Ávila Refashioned on the Stage and on the Page
Vision, Vulnerability, and the Provocative "Higas" in Lope de Vega's Santa Teresa de Jesús SHERRY VELASCO	221
Teresa of Ávila, Spiritual Warrior Secularized: Going for the Subjective in Bárbara Mujica's Biographical Fiction SUSAN L. FISCHER	241
Revisionism, Prolepsis, and Anachronism: Two Contemporary Spanish Novels about Teresa of Ávila ALISON WEBER	261
Part V. Epilogue: Call to Battle
Bárbara, la alquimista de palabras MARJORIE AGOSÍN	281
Contributors	287
Index	293