

Contents

Introduction	ix
Editorial Procedures	xxxix
1. 1890s–1950: “Hunter James”	1
2. 1903: “The Hermits”	16
3. 1903–1910: “All these different psychological experiments”	29
4. 1909–1950: “If I prayed every day what you prayed I don’t see how I could help calling myself a Utopian”	32
5. 1910–1955: “Submission to the law of the machine”	67
6. 1910: “Bring all under the influence of the great books as under a spell”	84
7. 1911: “She’s . . . writer I guess you’d call it Wants to go on the stage”	93
8. 1912–1915: “A Place Apart”	105
9. 1913–1917: “Beggars in England”	130
10. 1916–1918: “All my thoughts of every thing”	143
11. 1916–1919: “Two Poets”	146
12. 1918–1921: “A time when nothing, neither religion nor patriotism comes to an apex”	159
13. 1919: “The Copperhead”	178
14. 1920–1930: “The furthest two things can be away from each other”	187
15. 1923–1924: “Learn lives of poet”	196
16. 1924: “I don’t see what you have to complain of”	221
17. 1924–1925: “You and I”	228
18. 1926–1928: “Difference between meter and rhythm”	244
19. 1928: “I learned to laugh when I was young”	248

20.	1929: "These are not monologues but my part in a conversation"	267
21.	1930-1940: "Thick skinned Thick headed"	279
22.	1930-1940: "True humility is a kind of carelessness"	285
23.	1935-1951: "True humility again lies in suffering"	326
24.	1935: "Curiously Enough—as a connection"	345
25.	1935: "America and The Plot"	386
26.	1935: "Since surely good is evil's better half"	395
27.	1936: "The question for the original"	412
28.	1936-1939: "Having Learned to Read"	431
29.	1937-1942: "Democracy"	439
30.	1937: "Alcie That Socratic boy"	479
31.	1937-1955: "Three of those evils parsed in half an hour"	482
32.	1940-1950: "Leila. What have you brought him into the house for?"	555
33.	1940: "Prophetic"	560
34.	1950: "What is your attitude toward our having robbed the Indians of the American Continent?"	564
35.	1951-1952: "Pertinax"	569
36.	1950-1955: "And it would satisfy something in him"	586
37.	1950-1955: "If his own intuitions were correct"	588
38.	1950-1951: "There is a shadow always on success"	594
39.	1950-1962: "If we are too much given to reflect"	599
40.	1950-1962: "I wont be talked to by a woman, tell her"	604
41.	1960-1962: "Dedication of The Gift Outright"	625
42.	Undated: "One Favored Acorn"	629
43.	Undated: "First Answerability Divine Right"	636
44.	Undated: "Last Refinement of Subject Matter"	639

45. Undated: "Sentences may have the greatest monotony to the eye"	644
46. Undated: "Many speak as if it was a reproach to the Puritans"	647
47. Undated Loose Notebook Pages: "All thoughts all passions all delights"	650
48. Undated: "Nothing more composing than composition"	687
Notes	691
Acknowledgments	799
Index	801