

Table of contents

Contact details for contributors	VII
Preface	XI
Is Dublin English 'Alive Alive Oh'?	1
Karen P. Corrigan, Richard Edge & John Loneragan
Linguistic change in Galway City English: A study of phonological features in the district of Bóthar Mór	29
Arne Peters
[fɪləm] and [fərəm]? Sociolinguistic findings on schwa epenthesis in Galway English	47
Katrin Sell
The why of Belfast rises	67
Jennifer Sullivan
Exploring grammatical differences between Irish and British English	85
Markku Filppula
From Ireland to Newfoundland: What's the perfect after doing?	101
Sandra Clarke
"A cannot get a loan for more than six years now": The relationship between modal verbs and past time reference in Irish English	131
Marije van Hattum
Is it truly unique that Irish English clefts are? Quantifying the syntactic variation of it -clefts in Irish English and other post-colonial English varieties	153
Kalynda Beal
The discourse marker LIKE in Irish English	179
Martin Schweinberger
"I'm fine girl, and how are you?": The use of vocatives in spoken Irish English	203
Bróna Murphy & Fiona Farr

“It’s lunacy now”: A corpus-based pragmatic analysis of the use of ‘now’ in contemporary Irish English Brian Clancy & Elaine Vaughan	225
The responsive system of Irish English: Features and patterns Gili Diamant	247
A Corpus of Irish English Correspondence (CORIECOR): A tool for studying the history and evolution of Irish English Kevin McCafferty & Carolina P. Amador Moreno	265
The Irish in Argentina: Irish English transported Carolina P. Amador Moreno	289
Irish English and recent immigrants to Ireland Bettina Migge	311
Discourse ‘like’ and social identity – a case study of Poles in Ireland Niamh Nestor, Caitriona Ní Chasaide & Vera Regan	327
Bio Sketches	355
Index	359