

CONTENTS

Preface	viii
PART I PROBLEMS AND PROSPECTS
Chapter 1 New Restiveness, New Possibilities, and Unfinished Business in Fascist Studies	3
Chapter 2 Assessing the New Restiveness	21
Chapter 3 Transnational Turn, Further Unfinished Business, and Some Preliminary Categories and Distinctions	44
PART II MODES OF EPOCHAL INTERACTION
Chapter 4 Internal Interaction: Fascists, Conservatives, and the Establishment	61
Chapter 5 Supranational Interaction within the New Right	125
Chapter 6 Interaction with the Liberal Democracies	188
Chapter 7 Interaction across the Left-Right Divide and Uncertainty over "Totalitarianism"	202
PART III SOME TENTATIVE PRESCRIPTIONS
Chapter 8 Categories for Us: Blurring and Rigor	223
Chapter 9 Fascism as "Epochal" or Continuing Possibility?	257
Chapter 10 The Epochal Aggregate	271
Works Cited	297
Index	312