

Contents

ANDERS CULLHED, Editorial Note . . . . .	7
Fiction from the High Middle Ages to the Renaissance
JAN ZIOLKOWSKI, Fiction in the Long Twelfth Century and Beyond: Naissance, Renaissance, Both, or Neither . . . . .	11
RAFFAELE MORABITO, Boccaccio e l'abundantia cordis . . . . .	21
MARIANNE PADE, Intertextuality as a Narrative Device. The Epistolographic Genre in the Renaissance . . . . .	31
Theory of fiction
FRITZ PETER KNAPP, Mimesis in der mittelalterlichen Poetik . . . . .	43
WIM VERBAAL, Getting Lost in Worlds: The Fiction of Literature (eleventh and twelfth century). . .	55
PÄIVI M. MEHTONEN, Fiction Theory, Nominalist Mysticism and Medievalism . . . . .	63
Texts
GIOVANNI PAOLO MAGGIONI, Texts between History and Fiction in Medieval Hagiography . . . . .	75
BRIAN MØLLER JENSEN, Fables of Phaedrus Recycled in Medieval Latin Literature . . . . .	83
ANDERS CULLHED, Imagination, Shadows, Dante . . . . .	93
ANDERS HALLENGREN, Petrarch's Vindication of Poetic Imagination. . . . .	107
Contributors . . . . .	117