Figures

P.1	Overview maps: (a) Asia, (b) Europe and Africa, and (c) Africa and Americas	page xxii
2.1	Distributions of percentage sawahs under sugar cane for the years 1880 and 1920	73
2.2	Relations between percentage sawahs under cane and population density for 1880 and 1920	75
2.3	Relations between percentage sawahs under sugar cane and sawah area per capita for 1880 and 1920	76
2.4	Relations between percentage sawahs under cane and rice yield per unit sawah for 1880 and 1920	77
2.5	Relations between percentage sawahs under cane and wet rice production per capita, 1880 and 1920	78
2.6	Relations between percentage sawahs under cane and arable land per capita for 1880 and 1920	79
2.7	Distribution of percentages of sugar cane sawahs per district for each Residency in 1920	80
2.8	Livestock per unit of arable land in 1880 and 1920	82
2.9	Relation between numbers of livestock in 1880 and 1920 at Residency level	82
3.1	Rice regions in China, ca. 1920–1950s	87
5.1	Hydro-ecological zones of the Mekong Delta	120
6.1	Phylogenetic relationships among 315 West African rice samples using UPGMA	154
6.2	Close-up of the phylogenetic relationships of the Japonica cluster and its subclusters	156
8.1	Scarps and terraces of the Lower Coastal Plain, central South Carolina	194
8.2	Charleywood Plantation with new rice fields	195
8.3	Windsor Plantation, with rice fields in division “A” and flanking canal wrapping around division “B”	205

9.1	Population clusters identified by PCA in JMP Genomics software	221
10.1	Graph of 5-year running averages for four Lower Casamance stations	231
10.2	Location of our Jola study communities and the regions where they are found	233
11.1	Death rates during the 1908 Malaria epidemic in Punjab	253
11.2	Malaria distribution in Bengal	258
11.3	Seasonal mortality in the Punjab	272
13.1a	Geographic distribution of pounds of rice produced in Southwestern states 1880–1900	294
13.1b	Geographic distribution of pounds of rice produced in Southwestern states 1910–30	295
15.1	Map of a tobacco estate on Northeast Sumatra	341

Tables

2.1	The land, population, and rice-production characteristics of the sugar regions of Java in 1920	page 58
2.2	Production of kilocalories per capita per day for selected years, Java	67
2.3	Rice production per hectare (in kgs unhusked rice) for selected years	68
2.4	Correlations of percentage sawahs under cane with other variables	74
2.5	Correlations of the agricultural variables for districts	81
2.6	Correlations of livestock per unit of arable land with other variables at Residency level	83
6.1	Japonica rices at Mogbuama (Sierra Leone) in 1983 and 2007	158
13.1	Rice production in the United States, 1839-1919 (millions of pounds of clean rice)	299
13.2	Southwest Louisiana's share of total rice production in Louisiana, 1879-1929	309
13.3	Mean yield of clean rice per acre, southwest Louisiana, 1879-1929	311
15.1	Origins of rice imports of the Netherlands Indies, in the mid-1910s	346
15.2	Rice imports of four major districts of Sumatra, in the mid-1990s	346
