

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements		vii
Introduction	Introductory Thoughts on Anthropology and Urban Insurrection Don Kalb and Massimiliano Mollona	1
Chapter 1	Confronting 'Aggressive Urbanism': Frictional Heterogeneity in the 'Gezi Protests' of Turkey Mehmet Barış Kuymulu	31
Chapter 2	Reconfiguring 'the People'? Notes on the 2014 Winter Revolt in Bosnia and Herzegovina Stef Jansen	52
Chapter 3	'Sofia 2014, Feels Like 1989': Abstention from the Protests and Declining Market Teleology in Bulgaria Dimitra Kofti	73
Chapter 4	Spontaneity, Antagonism and the Moral Politics of Outrage: Urban Protest in Argentina since 2001 Sian Lazar	92
Chapter 5	'Neither Left nor Right': Crisis, Wane of Politics and Struggles for Sovereignty Giacomo Loperfido	118
Chapter 6	Rebels and Revolutionaries: Urban Mobilizations of the Kamaiya Movement in Post-conflict Western Nepal Michael Peter Hoffmann	142

Chapter 7	The Brazilian 'June' Revolution: Urban Struggles, Composite Articulations and New Class Analysis Massimiliano Mollona	163
Chapter 8	Contradictions of the 'Common Man': A Realist Approach to India's Aam Aadmi Party Luisa Steur	187
Chapter 9	Re-envisioning Social Movements in the Global City: From Fordism to the Neoliberal Era Ida Susser	208
Afterword	Notes for a Contemporary Urban Class Analysis Massimiliano Mollona and Don Kalb	223
Index		235