

Contents

Foreword vii
Introduction ix

I | The Israélite of the Republic 1

- 1 | Joseph Salvador, The People 5
- 2 | James Darmesteter, Preface, The Prophets of Israel 10
- 3 | Zadoc Kahn, Speech on the acceptance of his position as chief rabbi of France 18
- 4 | Bernard Lazare, Judaism's Conception of the Social and the Jewish People; Jewish Capitalism and Democracy 30
- 5 | André Spire, Preface (1959) to Jewish Poems; Prologue (1919) to Jewish Poems; Jewish Dreams 42
- 6 | Sylvain Lévi, Alliance israélite universelle 48
- 7 | Edmond Fleg, Why I Am a Jew 54

II | The Cataclysm and the Aftermath 59

- 8 | Simone Weil, What Is a Jew? 63
- 9 | Robert Gamzon, Tivliout: Harmony 66
- 10 | Jacob Gordin, The Galuth 78
- 11 | Emmanuel Levinas, The Jewish Experience of the Prisoner 99
- 12 | Vladimir Jankélévitch, Judaism, an "Internal Problem" 105
- 13 | Sarah Kofman, Smothered Words 117

III | Universal and Particular: The Jew and the Political Realm 123

- 14 | Albert Memmi, The Jew, the Nation, and History 125
- 15 | Richard Marienstras, The Jews of the Diaspora, or the Vocation of a Minority 137
- 16 | André Neher, The Jewish Dimension of Space: Zionism 151
- 17 | Henri Atlan, Jerusalem: The Terrestrial, the Celestial 159
- 18 | Shmuel Trigano, Klal Israel: The Totality minus One 171

IV | Identification, Disidentification 179

- 19 | Jacqueline Mesnil-Amar, The Lost Children of Judaism 181
- 20 | Léon Ashkénazi, Tradition and Modernity 186
- 21 | Alain Finkielkraut, From the Novelesque to Memory 198
- 22 | Hélène Cixous, Albums and Legends; The Dawn of Phallocentrism 208
- 23 | Jacques Derrida, Avowing—the Impossible: “Returns,” Repentance, and Reconciliation, a Lesson 214
- 24 | Stéphane Mosès, Normative Modernity and Critical Modernity 245

Acknowledgments 255

Suggestions for Further Reading 257

Index 259