

media literacy to scores of young people.

Media Literacy Now is the only organization advocating for systemic change in K-12 education leading to media literacy in curriculum. We cannot do this work alone. Media literacy is the only antidote to misinformation and the stakes are high. In just the last few months, information about COVID-19, racial justice, and even a presidential election has been widely misrepresented, further dividing us and literally putting lives at risk.

Please help us fight for an education system that meets the need of children to receive the education they deserve and the skills they need to live in this world.

Navigating a sea of information takes considerable skills that we often take for granted. Without these skills, young people are vulnerable to fabrications obscuring a path to credible information impacting their beliefs, health, and lives.

Support Media Literacy Now

Thank you!

Erin McNeill
Founder, Media Literacy Now

Copyright © 2020 Media Literacy Now, All rights reserved.

You are receiving this email because you are interested in media literacy education

Our mailing address is:

Media Literacy Now
15 Main St. Suite 102