49TH YEAR

How much longer can you buy a STEINWAY AT THIS PRICE?

STACK 3

$119 DOWN

Balance in three years

FOR the last six months Steinway pianos have been sold at a figure lower than any purchaser could reasonably have expected to pay for an instrument of the quality and beauty of the Steinway . . . a figure which has not been duplicated in fourteen years.

But now there is every indication of a rise in commodity prices which will, necessarily, be reflected in the cost of pianos now being built.

How much longer can you buy a Steinway at this price? We have sold pianos for 80 years, and, in view of the actual cost of manufacture, we think it entirely probable that such an opportunity may never occur again.

Prices on the remaining pianos now available begin at $1190. You have three years to finish paying, and, considered as a long-time investment—which a Steinway is—the cost per year becomes really nominal. Steinway & Sons, Steinway Hall, 109 W. 57th St. (between Sixth and Seventh Aves.), New York.
