

Youth explore a variety of animal reproductive tracts, as well as, learning about gestation for various animals. They always remember swine as it is 3 months, 3 weeks, and 3 days.

“Animals Inside and Out is loaded with useful content that supports the Nebraska standards and our curriculum. The experience made students aware of things that interest them beyond the classroom and into the real world. Hands-on activities, real life models, and experienced leaders made this learning opportunity a first class adventure. My students favorite activities were the beef lab, walking the flow of blood, and the reproductive systems of animals. It is my hope that through continued quality educational programs such as this that my students explore careers in ag sciences.”
