

See, Test & Treat® is a one-of-a-kind opportunity for health care institutions to decrease health disparities and increase visibility in the communities they serve.

What Does See, Test & Treat Offer Your Institution?

See Test & Treat establishes your institution as a safe and welcoming environment where community members can understand what resources are available to them. Through this pathologist-led program, host institutions provide free and accessible breast and cervical cancer screening, hold a health fair with participation from local community organizations, businesses and stakeholders and offers health insurance navigation services so that the participants can find a health insurance option that fits their needs.

Ten years of events at a variety of institutions across the US shows that See, Test & Treat helps establish your institution as an information hub in the community that offers families a safe place to explore their health care options. Furthermore, hosting a See, Test & Treat program also fulfills community event obligations that are often required for hospitals and cancer care centers by accrediting organizations.

“It helps health care systems become better partners with the community and improves the health of the population.”

– Mark Einstein, MD, MS,
FACS, FACOG,
Rutgers Health

“You don’t have to go far to change lives. Charity begins at home, and through the See, Test & Treat program, the CAP Foundation epitomizes that philosophy.”

– Dina R. Mody, MD, FCAP
Houston Methodist Hospital

What Does See, Test & Treat Offer Your Community?

Ultimately, See, Test & Treat benefits your community by offering medically underserved women a pleasant, dignified experience that allows them access to breast and cervical cancer screenings among other beneficial resources. See, Test & Treat patients repeatedly give positive feedback on the warm and helpful environment of the program, which encourages them to continue to engage with the health care system and take a proactive, preventative approach to health.

What Does See, Test & Treat Offer Your Employees, Clinicians, and Medical Students?

This highly collaborative event has proven to improve interdepartmental and employee relationships by acting as an effective team building event. See, Test & Treat also offers a valuable teaching experience for residents and medical students who appreciate the opportunity to interact with the public and patients while experiencing different sides of the health care system. Past medical student and resident volunteers have reported being able to assist with procedures that they would not have been able to in the past and gain valuable insight into patient care and public health issues.
