The screenshot shows the top navigation bar of the LifestyleAsia website with the logo and menu items like HOME, FEATURES, and CITY GUIDE. The main article title is "Review: The Anandita Villa in Lombok" with a sub-headline "Treat yourself to an idyllic getaway on the beautiful island of Lombok". A large image of a swimming pool is featured, with a caption: "The private pool and Jacuzzi at The Anandita are a pleasure to lounge and relax in." Below the image is a social media sharing bar for the date "1 March, 2013". The article text begins with "Anandita translates to 'happiness' in Sanskrit, and this is exactly what you'll find at this lovely villa on the beautiful island of Lombok." Another image shows a bedroom with a caption: "The day rooms provide a useful escape from all of the activity at the villa." The text continues: "With almost four acres of land and a private beach at your disposal, this villa is the perfect setting for a tranquil and activity-filled getaway. The Anandita is divided into four-bedroom pavilions and a main area which houses the living and dining rooms, as well as the pool. Each room is splashed with bright colours and wood tones, vivid deep red walls, multi-coloured throw pillows, and wooden furniture features. King-sized beds and connective outdoor provide the rooms with a family-friendly touch. The spacious en-suite bathrooms come complete with a bathtub and rain shower and each room has speakers ready for an iPod to be plugged in for entertainment. The rooms have sliding doors that all overlook and open up onto the lush garden filled with tropical trees and plants."

This section of the screenshot is titled "Facilities and services" and includes several paragraphs of text and images. The first image shows an outdoor dining area with a caption: "Opt for breakfast to be served at the outdoor on the private beach overlooking ocean." The text describes the villa's amenities: "With a huge garden, private beach, swimming pool and Jacuzzi, the possibilities are endless. At Anandita, you can rent kites or some snorkelling equipment and spend the day exploring the ocean. If you prefer land-based activities, there are bikes at your disposal, and an area to play volleyball or football on the lawn." It also mentions an 18-hole championship golf course and a boat to take you to the Gili Islands. Further services include massages and a private chef. A final paragraph notes that WiFi is available in the main living area. Below this is a "The verdict" section with an image of a lounge area and a caption: "On the four acres of land, you can indulge in your lush surroundings and enjoy your time in Lombok. Here at The Anandita, you have to completely surrender to your surroundings; take in the quiet calm of the village and your own personal villa and garden. This is an escape that will leave you feeling completely refreshed and rejuvenated. For rates and booking information visit www.theanandita.com." A social media sharing bar is also present.

Anandita translates to 'happiness' in Sanskrit, and this is exactly what you'll find at this lovely villa on the beautiful island of Lombok. Here, you'll discover an escape that has all the comforts of a hotel, coupled with plenty of activities to keep you entertained.

The villa

With almost four acres of land and a private beach at your disposal, this villa is the perfect setting for a tranquil and activity-filled getaway. The Anandita is divided into four-bedroom pavilions and a main area which houses the living and dining rooms, as well as the pool.

Each room is splashed with bright colours and wood tones; vivid deep red walls, multi-coloured throw pillows, and wooden furniture features. King-sized beds and convertible daybeds provide the rooms with a family-friendly touch. The spacious en-suite bathrooms come complete with a bathtub and rain shower and each room has speakers ready for an iPod to be plugged in for entertainment.

The rooms have sliding doors that all overlook and open up onto the lush garden filled with tropical trees and plants.

Facilities and services

With a huge garden, private beach, swimming pool and Jacuzzi, the possibilities are endless. At Anandita, you can rent a kayak or some snorkelling equipment and spend the day exploring the ocean. If you prefer land-bound activities, there are bikes at your disposal, and an area to play volleyball or football on the lawn.

For additional activities, there's an 18-hole championship course situated adjacent to the villa. You're also able to hire a boat to take you to any of the stunning Gili islands, which are just a few minutes away. At these islands, you can snorkel, feed the fish, or spend your afternoon sunbathing with stunning views of the turquoise blue ocean.

To further relax, call in a private masseuse to ensure you get an invigorating massage by the beach. After one of these sessions, you'll be putty in their hands.

When hunger strikes, the villa's chef is available to cook up anything that might tickle your fancy. All you have to do is let the staff know your menu requirements ahead of time, and it will be prepared whenever you're ready. A barbecue can be set up in the garden or by the beach if you're looking to have a delectable meal outdoors.

This leisurely getaway is not for the busy traveller who can't leave work alone. WiFi internet is only available in the main living area, and can be a bit spotty and slow. At The Anandita, you're meant to shut your mind off from the office and completely indulge in your idyllic surroundings.

The verdict

Here at The Anandita, you have to completely surrender to your surroundings; take in the quiet calm of the village and your own personal villa and garden. This is an escape that will leave you feeling completely refreshed and rejuvenated.
