

Contents

Introduction	1
1. Disbelief, and the Suspension of Judgment in Ovid's Metamorphoses	17
Problems of Ethics in the Metamorphoses	26
Perception as a Problem of Natural Philosophy in the Metamorphoses	38
Rhetorical and Poetic Figures of Metamorphosis	54
Conclusion: Philosophy and the Ovidian Notion of Poetry	72
2. The Triumph of Subjectivity in Petrarch's Rime Sparse	79
Pierre Bersuire and the Medieval Metamorphoses	81
Visions and Revisions: Several Myths of Metamorphosis in the Rime	92
Self-Fragmentation: The 'canzone delle metamorfosi'	100
'In my End is my Beginning:' The 323rd poem	122
3. Imagination and Nature in the Lyric Poetry of Pierre de Ronsard	133
Myths of Metamorphosis and Ronsard's Theory of Poetry	133
Varieties of Metamorphosis in Ronsard's Poetry	144
Demons and the Metamorphic Imagination	166
Metamorphosis and Poetic Inspiration: 'Le Nuage'	196

Metamorphosis as a Figure of Poetic Production: 'Le Voyage de Tours'	206
The Limitations of Mutability: The ' Discours à Chauveau '	214
Epilogue: The Poet as 'Easy Philosopher'	229
Bibliography	239
Index	253