

Contents

Contributors xi

Introduction I

Seth Lerer

PART I: The Everyday and History

"Pathos of the Earthly Progress": Erich Auerbach's Everydays 13

Hans Ulrich Gumbrecht

Auerbach's "Hidden" (?) Theory of History 36

Claus Uhlig

Auerbach and Literary History 50

Luiz Costa-Lima

PART II: Philology, Language, and History

Philology in Auerbach's Drama of (Literary) History 63

Stephen G. Nichols

Philology and Collaboration: The Case of Adam and Eve 78

Seth Lerer

Medieval Vernaculars and the Myth of Monoglossia:

A Conspiracy of Linguistics and Philology 92

Suzanne Fleischman

PART III : Figurai History, Historical Figures

Figura, Allegory, and the Question of History 107*Jesse M. Gellrich*Auerbach's Literary History:
Figurai Causation and Modernist Historicism 124*Hoyden White*

PART IV : Turning Points in Literary History

Literary Realism in the Later Ancient Period 143

*Brian Stock*The Ideology of Periodization:
Mimesis 10 and the Late Medieval Aesthetic 156*Kevin Brownlee*

PART V: Legacies

Auerbach's Performance and the American Academy, or How New Haven Stole the Idea of Mimesis 179*Carl Landauer*On the Reception of Mimesis 195*Herbert Lindenberger*

Erich Auerbach and the "Inner Dream" of Transcendence 214

Geoffrey Green

Literature as Language: Auerbach, Spitzer, Jakobson 227

Thomas R. HartNotes 243*Index* 299