General Editors' Preface, ROBERT M. DORAN / xv

ENGLISH TRANSLATION

Part One: Theses 15–17 of De Verbo Incarnato / 1

Part 5 [of De Verbo Incarnato]: The Redemption / [Introduction] / 3

Bibliographical note / 3

Thesis 15: 'Redemption' denotes not only an end but also a mediation, namely, the payment of the price, Christ the mediator's vicarious passion and death on account of sins and for sinners, our high priest's sacrifice offered in his blood, his meritorious obedience, the power of the risen Lord, and the intercession of the eternal priest. / 5

[The argument] / 31

Part 1: Redemption denotes an end. / 31

Part 2: Redemption denotes not only an end but also a mediation. / 35
Part 3: Redemption as mediation is seen in the payment of the price. / 39
Part 4: Redemption as mediation is seen in Christ's vicarious passion and death because of sins and for sinners. / 45
Part 5: Redemption as mediation is seen in the sacrifice offered by our high priest in his own blood. / 53
Part 6: Redemption as mediation is seen in obedience. / 59
Part 7: Redemption as mediation is seen both in the power of the risen Lord and in the intercession of the eternal priest. / 65
A note on the modes and effects of redemption / 77

Thesis 16: Christ's satisfaction. Christ made not only condign but even superabundant satisfaction for our sins. This satisfaction is understood according to a sacramental analogy, and therefore it adds to Christ's vicarious passion and death an expression of the utmost detestation of all sins and of the greatest sorrow for all offense against God. / 79

The argument / 171
1 Christ materially made satisfaction for our sins. / 171

- 2 Christ formally made satisfaction for our sins. / 171
- 3 Christ made condign satisfaction for our sins. / 177
- 4 Christ made superabundant satisfaction for our sins. / 179
- 5 God directly willed Christ's satisfaction. / 181
- 6 It must be acknowledged that there is a certain transformative principle operative throughout the entire work of redemption. / 183
- 7 Christ's satisfaction is to be understood according to a sacramental analogy. / 185
- 8 Christ's satisfaction adds to his vicarious passion and death an expression of the utmost detestation for all sins and of extreme sorrow for all offense against God. / 191

Thesis 17: [Understanding the Mystery: The Law of the Cross.] This is why the Son of God became man, suffered, died, and was raised again: because divine wisdom has ordained and divine goodness has willed, not to do away with the evils of the human race through power, but to convert those same evils into a supreme good according to the just and mysterious law of the cross. / 197

Meaning of the thesis, terms / 197

Theological note / 207

Opinions / 207

Preliminary note: The analogy of this question / 219

The argument / 223

1 The law of the cross, first element: sin and death / 223

2 The law of the cross: the transformation of death / 225

3 The transformation of death has a twofold significance. / 225

4 This same transformation of death, understood in several ways, is required of us. / 227

5 The law of the cross is the law of the redemption. / 233

6 It was fitting for the Son of God to make the law of the cross his own. / 241

LATIN TEXT

Pars V: De Redemptione / 2
[Introductio] / 2
Nota bibliographica / 2

Thesis 15: Redemptio non solum finem dicit sed etiam mediationem, solutum nempe pretium, vicariam Christi mediatoris passionem et mortem propter peccata et pro peccatoribus, sacrificium a pontifice nostro in suo sanguine oblatum, meritoriam obedientiam, resuscitati Domini virtutem, et aeterni sacerdotis intercessionem. / 4

[Argumentum] / 30
Pars prima: Redemptio dicit finem. / 30
Pars secunda: Redemptio non solum finem dicit sed etiam mediationem. / 34
Pars tertia: Redemptio-mediatio perspicitur in soluto pretio. / 38
Pars quarta: Redemptio-mediatio perspicitur in vicaria Christi passione et morte propter peccata et pro peccatoribus. / 44
Pars quinta: Redemptio-mediatio perspicitur in sacrificio a pontifice nostro in suo sanguine oblato. / 52
Pars sexta: Redemptio-mediatio perspicitur in obedientia. / 58
Pars septima: Redemptio-mediatio perspicitur tum in virtute Domini resuscitati tum in intercessione aeterni sacerdotis. / 64
Scholion: De modis et effectibus redemptionis / 76
Thesis 16: De Satisfactione Christi. Christus pro peccatis nostris non solum condigne sed etiam superabundanter satisfecit; quae quidem satisfactio secundum analogiam sacramentalem intelligitur; et ideo vicariae passioni et morti addit expressionem summae detestationis omnium peccatorum et summi doloris de omni offensa Dei. / 78

Argumentum / 172
1 Christus materialiter satisfecit pro peccatis nostris. / 172
2 Christus formaliter pro peccatis nostris satisfecit. / 172
3 Christus pro nostris peccatis condigne satisfecit. / 176
4 Christus pro nostris peccatis superabundanter satisfecit. / 178
5 Deus directe voluit satisfactionem Christi. / 180
6 In toto redemptionis opere agnoscendum est quoddam quasi principium transformationis. / 182
7 Satisfactio Christi intelligitur secundum analogiam sacramentalis. / 184
8 Satisfactio Christi vicariae passioni et morti addit expressionem summae detestationis omnium peccatorum et summi doloris de omni offensa Dei. / 190
Thesis 17: Dei Filius ideo homo factus, passus, mortuus, et resuscitatus est, quia divina sapientia ordinavit et divina bonitas voluit, non per potentiam mala generis humani auferre, sed secundum iustum atque mysteriosam crucis legem eadem mala in summum quoddam bonum convertere. / 196
Sensus theseos, termini / 196
