

Contents

1. Bonhoeffer and the Idea of Christian Humanism	1
Introduction	1
Bonhoeffer against Humanism: Barcelona and Berlin 1928–31	4
After Barcelona: American Christian Humanism at Union Seminary	9
Christian Humanism at the University of Berlin	11
Reversing Course: Bonhoeffer a Christian Humanist?	13
Bonhoeffer's Christian Humanism in Cultural Context	21
Bonhoeffer in Relation to Other Christian Humanisms	24
Conclusion	35
2. Bonhoeffer's Theological Anthropology and the Greater Tradition, Part I: Christology and Recapitulation	37
Introduction: Bonhoeffer's Anthropology—A Reversal of Patristic Thought?	37
Patristic Imago Dei Christology: Theology as Anthropology	44
Bonhoeffer, Theologian of the Incarnation	47
Bonhoeffer and Patristic Logos Christology	50
Recapitulation and New Humanity in Irenaeus and the Fathers	61
The Body of Christ or Eucharistic Humanism	64
Stellvertretung : Recapitulation in Bonhoeffer's Theology	71
Conclusion	77
3. Bonhoeffer's Theological Anthropology and the Greater Tradition, Part II: Christ's Body, Eucharistic Humanism, and Deification	79
Christ's Body: The Church as the New Humanity	79
Bonhoeffer's Eucharistic Humanism: "Christ Existing as Community"	82
The Biblical Roots of Bonhoeffer's Participatory Ontology	88
Christian Humanism for the Sake of the World	91
Deification as Christformation: Reversal or Congruence?	97
Deification of the Human Body in Christ	101
Deification as Ethical Formation	104
Conclusion	110
4. In God's Image: From Sicut Deus to Imago Dei	113
Introduction	113
Theological Roots of Bonhoeffer's Imago Dei	115
Freedom as Relation	117
The Other as Limit	119
"Subduing the Earth": Dominion as Responsibility	122
Dominion Gone Wrong: The Imago Dei and Disordered Desire	128
The Truly Human Self: From the Divided Sicut Deus to Unified Imago Dei	129

Sicut Deus: The Divided Self and the Rise of Conscience	131
The Image Restored: The Unified Self or “Being-in-Christ”	134
The Christological Structure of the Self: Incarnation, Cross, and Resurrection	139
The Relevance of Bonhoeffer’s Unified Self for Other Humanisms	142
Conclusion	146
5. Bonhoeffer’s Hermeneutic Theology	148
Introduction: Bonhoeffer’s Christological Hermeneutics	148
Bonhoeffer’s Hermeneutic Consciousness	151
Basic Contours of Hermeneutic Philosophy	153
Hermeneutic Elements in Bonhoeffer’s Early Works	155
Bonhoeffer and the Hermeneutical Circle	159
Bonhoeffer’s Hermeneutical Circle: One Christ Reality	162
Participatory Knowledge: The “Evangelical” Hermeneutics of Discipleship	166
Following Jesus: Engaged Knowing	171
The Hermeneutic Importance of the Threefold Christ Event	175
The Interpretive Function of the Ultimate-Penultimate Relation	177
Conclusion: Realistic Responsibility	181
6. Living Freely before God: Christian Humanist Ethics or “Realistic Responsible Action”	183
Introduction	183
Participatory Ontology: Bonhoeffer’s Ethical Realism	186
One Christ-Reality	188
The “Real One”: Relational Ontology versus Christomonism	190
Ultimate-Penultimate: The Eschatological Dimension of Christformation	193
Renewing the Image: Ethics as Christformation	196
The Social Aspects of Christformation	204
Christformation in Western Culture	207
Discerning God’s Will: Ethics as “Realistic Responsible Action”	211
Responsibility and the Assumption of “Guilt”	219
Living Freely before God	224
Conclusion	234
7. The Vulnerability of the Word: Bonhoeffer’s Biblical Hermeneutics	236
Introduction	236
Letting the Bible Speak: Barth’s Critique of Historical Criticism	238
God Speaks to Us: Bonhoeffer’s “Discovery” of the Bible	241
The Divine-Human Word: Bonhoeffer’s Incarnational View of the Bible	244
Reading the Book of the Church: Bonhoeffer on Theological Interpretation	248
Reading the Bible “from Christ toward Christ”	252

Reading the Old Testament with Bonhoeffer	255
Theological Interpretation of Genesis	256
Sermons and Meditations	258
Christ in the Psalms	259
The Sacrament of the Word: Exegesis in the Service of Christformation	264
Non-Religious Interpretation of Biblical Concepts	267
Non-Religious Interpretation: Christian Humanist Implications	273
Humanism as the Polyphony of Life: Re-Discovering the Old Testament	278
Bonhoeffer's "Creation Faith": Toward an Integral Christian Humanism	281
Conclusion	288
8. Recovering the Natural: Humanizing Politics	291
Introduction	291
Recovering the Natural	293
Natural Life and Natural Rights	298
Recovering Natural "Law"	305
Bonhoeffer's View of Church-State Relations	311
Bonhoeffer's Political Thought within the Broader Christian Tradition	315
Politics after Christendom	320
Christ, Pluralism, and Secular Democracies	323
Conclusion	329
9. Conclusion: The Continuing Relevance of Bonhoeffer's Christian Humanism	331
Bibliography	339
Name Index	357
Subject Index	359