

Contents

Acknowledgments	XI
Notes on Contributors	XII

- 1 A Fraught Process: Devising New Stage Idioms for Post-apartheid South Africa 1
Marc and Jessica Maufort

PART 1

Playwrights' Perspectives

- 2 On Black and White: Staging South African Identities after Apartheid 23
Greg Homann
- 3 Being in Two Places at the Same Time 43
Craig Higginson
- 4 Theatre of the Native Tongue 56
Omphile Molusi
- 5 Transformation and the Post-apartheid Condition: The Collision of Policy and Imagination in South African Theatre 63
Mike van Graan

PART 2

Dramatic, Theatrical and Performance Reconfigurations

- 6 Performing Athol Fugard's Outsider Art in The Road to Mecca and The Painted Rocks at Revolver Creek: Transformative Art Defies Percepticide 77
Marcia Blumberg
- 7 Alluring Voices from the Page to the Stage: Literary Characters and the Question of the 'Real' in Reza de Wet's Verleiding 97
Petrus du Preez

- 8 From the Stage to the Page: Trauma, Reconciliation and Remembering in Craig Higginson's Dream of the Dog and The Dream House 121
Mathilde Rogez
- 9 South African Theatre and the Politics of the Improvisatory 143
Ralph Yarrow
- 10 The Fault-Lines of Idiom: New Thematic and Stylistic Trends in the Plays of Allan Kolski Horwitz 164
Vicki Briault Manus
- 11 Revisiting the Past, Imagining the Future: Aesthetic of Creolization in Post-apartheid South African Drama 183
Marc Maufort

PART 3

Female Playwriting

- 12 Intimate Exposure: Solo Women Performing in Post-apartheid South Africa 209
Veronica Baxter
- 13 Recuperating Historical Narratives of Violence and Dislocation in Rehane Abrahams' What the Water Gave Me 229
Jill Planche
- 14 Female Interventions in Contemporary South African Drama and Performance: An Analysis of Selected Work by Women Artists 252
Jessica Murray
- 15 An Unfinished Homecoming: Postmemory, Place and New Practices of Politicisation in the Plays of Nadia Davids and Amy Jephtha 271
Ksenia Robbe

PART 4

Creolization: From the Cape to Transnational Vistas

- 16 'Dis Nie Myne Nie, Dis Nie Joune Nie' or Kramer and Petersen's
Ghoema: Inscribing the Past, Claiming the Present? 293
Paula Fourie
- 17 Shakespeare versus Shakespeare: Notes on Theatre-Making from Belgium to South Africa 313
Chris Thurman
- Index of Names and Literary Works 343