

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	xi
1. Robert Greystones on Certainty and Skepticism	xi
2. The Selections and Structure of This Volume	xxv
3. The Doctrine of the Questions	xxix
4. The Manuscripts	liii
5. Patrington and Greystones	liv
6. Editorial Principles and Translation	lvi
Sigla	lix

SELECTIONS FROM GREYSTONES'S WORKS

Super Sententias	Utrum ex principiis creditis possit haberi
Prologue q. 1:	scientia proprie dicta	3
	Whether knowledge properly speaking can be obtained from believed principles
Quaestio disputata 1:	Utrum viator per aliquem actum possit esse certus de existientia alicuius rei distinctae ab eo	183
	Whether someone in this life can through any act be certain about the existence of any thing distinct from himself
Super Sententias	Utrum Deus possit esse subiectum alicuius
Prologue q. 2:	scientiae	239
	Whether God can be the subject of any branch of knowledge
Quaestio disputata 13:	Utrum idem intellectus de eodem subiecto possit simul habere fidem et scientiam	363
	Whether the same intellect can simultaneously have faith and knowledge about the same subject

Super Sententias	Utrum beatus sciat se semper habiturum
Book IV d. 49 q. 2:	beatitudinem	435
	Whether the blessed know that they will always have blessedness
Index Sacrae Scripturae		479
Index Auctorum		481
Index Doctrinalis		499