CONTENTS

Introduction by John J McGavin and Greg Walker 1

PART I
Courts 5

1 Plays and playcoats: a courtly interlude tradition in Scotland?, Comparative Drama, 46:4 (2012), pp. 475–96. 7

2 'To thexaltacyon of noblesse': a herald's account of the marriage of Margaret Tudor and James IV, Medieval English Theatre, 29 (2009 for 2007), pp. 104–20. 25

3 'Gely wyth tharmys of Scotland England': word, image and performance at the marriage of James IV and Margaret Tudor, in 'Fresche Fontanis': Studies in the Culture of Medieval and Early Modern Scotland, ed. by Janet Hadley Williams and J. Derrick McClure (Newcastle: Cambridge Scholars Press, 2013), pp. 165–77. Published with the permission of Cambridge Scholars Publishing. 40

4 (with Graham Runnalls), The Entertainments at the marriage of Mary Queen of Scots and the French Dauphin François, 1558: Paris and Edinburgh, Medieval English Theatre, 22 (2000), pp. 145–61 [with thanks to Mrs Anne Runnalls]. 52

5 Performing diplomacies: the 1560s court entertainments of Mary Queen of Scots, Scottish Historical Review, LXXXII: 2 (October 2003), pp. 194–225. Reproduced with permission of the Licensor through PLSclear. 65

6 Love and chastity: political performance in Scottish, French, and English courts of the 1560s, in Joyous Sweit Imaginatioun: Essays in Honour of Professor R.D.S. Jack, ed. by Sarah Carpenter and Sarah Dunnigan, SCROLL (Amsterdam and New York: Rodopi, 2007), pp. 111–28. 97

7 Dramatising ideology: Monarch, State, and People, Theta, 9 (2011), pp. 95–112 http://umr6576.cesr.univ-tours.fr/publications/Theta9/ 110

PART II
Audiences 123

8 New evidence: Vives and audience-response to biblical drama, Medieval English Theatre, 31 (2011 for 2009), pp. 3–12. 125

9 Verity's Bible: books, texts, and reading in Ane Satyre of the Thrie Estaitis, Medieval English Theatre, 33 (2011), pp. 58–74. 133

10 Towards a reformed theatre: David Lyndsay and Ane Satyre of the Thrie Estaitis, The Yearbook of English Studies, 43 (2013), pp. 203–22. Reproduced by permission of the Modern Humanities Research Association. 146

11 The sixteenth-century court audience: performers and spectators, Medieval English Theatre, 19 (1997), pp. 3–14. 165

12 'My Lady Tongue': Thomas Tomkis's Lingua, Medieval English Theatre, 24 (2002), pp. 3–14. 175

13 The politics of unreason: Ane Satyre of the Thrie Estaitis and the practices of folly, Theta, 10 (2013), pp. 35–52 http://umr6576.cesr.univ-tours.fr/publications/Theta10/ 185

14 Laughing at natural fools, Theta, 11 (2014) pp. 3–22 http://umr6576.cesr.univ-tours.fr/publications/Theta11/ 197

15 The places of foolery: Robert Armin and fooling in Edinburgh, Medieval English Theatre, 37 (2015), pp. 11–26. 211

Sarah Carpenter: bibliography 224
Index 227