

Index

Objects, relics, and migrants: a few introductory remarks	7
1. The apse of the Basilica Martyrum and the Milanese relics in the fourth century	15
Plates	17
Gervase, Protase and the lost apse	27
The Milanese relics and the construction of the city	39
2. The Sacellum of San Vittore in Ciel d'Oro and the birth of the cult of Ambrose	51
Plates	53
A controversial edifice	73
Images and relics	77
The image in the apse?	87
Victor's apotheosis	87
3. Exile in Genoa, the relics of Ambrose, the Lombards, and the year 600	95
The Milanese bishops in exile	97
The cult of the relics of Ambrose in Milan	100
4. The golden altar and the Carolingians in Milan	107
Plates	109
A resplendent reliquary	138
The Milanese relics and Carolingian Milan	146
5. The apse narrative: Rome and the Empire	161
Plates	163
A martyrised mosaic	166

A new story for an ancient apse	167
Ambrose, Martin, and the unity between Lombardy and the Empire	168
Ambrose's true face	171
Conclusion: Ambrose, his body, his image, and ethnic inclusion	177
6. The Sant' Ambrogio ciborium and the eclipse of Milan	181
Plates	183
A decorative palimpsest	201
An object and its context: the view from the nave	202
The Milanese saints raised to glory	211
A royal coronation in Milan?	214
Conclusion. Ambrose before Barnabas (and after Dario Fo)	223
Bibliography	225
Index of names	243
Index of places	247