

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Abbreviations	ix
Introduction: Reading the Book of Nature THOMAS WILLARD, University of Arizona	xi

Part I: Perspectives

Reading Early Medieval Landscape and Environment: Materially Engaged Approaches to Documentary Sources MICHAEL BINTLEY, Birkbeck College, University of London	3
Rivers as Critical Boundaries in Wolfram von Eschenbach's Parzival and Titivel : Ecocritical Perspectives in Medieval German Literature ALBRECHT CLASSEN, University of Arizona	21

Part II: The Medieval World

Feathers and Figuration: Ravens in Old English Literature TODD PRESTON, Lycoming College	37
Nature as Worshiper: Reading "The Song of the Three Children" in the Old English Daniel and Azarias EMMA KNOWLES, University of Sydney	53
The Exemplary Environment of Bartholomaeus Anglicus MICHAEL W. TWOMEY, Ithaca College	71
Field Notes on the Inferno : Snakes (and Cords) LORI J. ULTSCH, Hofstra University	89
Corruption and Redemption: An Ecotheological Reading of Ála Flekks saga TIFFANY NICOLE WHITE, University of California at Berkeley	101
Visualizing the Medieval Park: Real Spaces and Imagined Places in Le livre de chasse REBEKAH L. PRATT-STURGES, Northern Arizona University	119

Part III: The Early Modern World

Nature as Book and Stage in Gonzalo Fernández de Oviedo's Chronicle of Nicaragua SARAH H. BECKJORD, Boston College	141
Saul and Paul in the Wilderness: Two Religious Landscapes of Pieter Bruegel the Elder CATHERINE SCHULTZ MCFARLAND, Independent Scholar	159
"I on my horse, and love on me": Contextualizing the Equestrian Metaphors of Philip Sidney's Astrophil and Stella JENNIFER BESS, Goucher College	177
Shakespeare's Savage Trees GRACE TIFFANY, Western Michigan University	197
How to do Things with Birds: The Radical Politics of Nature's Speech Acts in Macbeth SETH SWANNER, University of Wyoming	209
Notes on Contributors	229