

Contents

| | |
|--|----------|
| Acknowledgements | page xii |
| Preface | xv |
| Introduction: Contaminated Citizenship | 1 |
| Part I Fissures in the Foundations of the Temple | 37 |
| 1 Is a ‘Worker’ Really a Worker? A Discursive Assessment of the Substantive Evolution of the Concept of the ‘Community Worker’ | 39 |
| 2 The Role Explicitly Economically Inactive and Potentially Socially Excluded Categories of Individuals Played in the Subjective Creation of EU Citizenship | 100 |
| Part II The Crumbling Pillars of the Temple | 161 |
| 3 A Discourse of Equal Treatment? | 163 |
| 4 The Citizen Is Born – Literal Utterances to the Citizen Prior to 1992 | 203 |
| Part III Could the Roof of the Temple Cave in? | 267 |
| 5 Genealogy and the Potential for Dismantling EU Citizenship? | 269 |
| Concluding Remarks | 342 |
| Bibliography | 346 |
| Index | 383 |