DE SEPTUAGINTA INVESTIGATIONES

VOLUME 15

Miika Tucker presents a translation technical study of Septuagint Jeremiah for the purpose of characterizing the translation. The conclusions draw from changes that occur between chapters 1-28 (Jer a') and 29-52 (Jer b'). The author identifies two competing translational tendencies in Jer b'. The first is a turn toward natural Greek expression that represents the initial translation. The second displays the budding character of the kaige tradition.

“This volume is simply the answer to all Jeremiah textual problems. Miika Tucker is the next combined Tov, Muraoka and Soisalon-Soininen!” (Kristin De Troyer)
