

Contents

Introduction	1
Patricia F. Ferguson
1. Pots, Prints and Politics in China? Some Examples from the 14th to the 17th Centuries	5
Luk Yu-ping
2. A 14th-Century Longquan Pot with a Dual Purpose	16
Elaine Buck
3. Illustrated Hagiographies and Figure Production in Late Ming Fujian	22
Wenyuan Xin
4. 'Take Note': The Construction of Political Allegories of the Sack of Rome (1527) on Italian Renaissance Maiolica in the British Museum	31
Dora Thornton
5. War on a Plate: The Battle of Mühlberg on a Maiolica Dish at the Wallace Collection, London	42
Elisa Paola Sani
6. Prints and Post-Palissian Ceramics	51
Claire Blakey and Rachel King
7. Exotic Self-Reflections: Fashioning Chinese Porcelain for European Eyes	67
Helen Glaister
8. 'Aux plaisirs des dames': Designing and Redesigning a Meissen bourdaloue	76
Catrin Jones
9. Myth and Materiality: Admiral Anson's Chinese Armorial Dinner Service at Shugborough Hall, Staffordshire	85
Patricia F. Ferguson
10. From stampa and riporto to giochi di bambini: Transfer Printing and Iconographic Sources at Carlo Ginori's Porcelain Manufactory at Doccia	95
Alessandro Biancalana
11. Jefferyes Hamett O'Neale (act. 1750–1801): Porcelain Painter and Print Designer	109
Sheila O'Connell
12. Propaganda on Pots: 'King Louis's Last Interview with his Family' on a Creamware Mug, 1793–5	116
Caroline McCaffrey-Howarth

13. Pots for Poets: Ceramics Up-Close in Japanese Prints, Including Hokusai's Everything Concerning Horses	124
Mary Redfern
14. 'Remember them that are in Bonds': A Plate Made for the Abolition Movement	130
Ronald W. Fuchs II and Patricia F. Ferguson
15. Appropriated Heroes: Prints, Pots and Political Symbols in Revolutionary China	140
Mary Ginsberg
Bibliography	149
Contributors	160
Index	162