

Table of contents

Acknowledgements	VII
Biographical notes	IX
CHAPTER 1
A corpus-based approach to register variation	1
Elena Seoane and Douglas Biber
CHAPTER 2
Extending text-linguistic studies of register variation to a continuous situational space: Case studies from the web and natural conversation	19
Douglas Biber, Jesse Egbert, Daniel Keller and Stacey Wizner
CHAPTER 3
How register-specific is probabilistic grammatical knowledge? A programmatic sketch and a case study on the dative alternation with give	51
Alexandra Engel, Jason Grafmiller, Laura Rosseel, Benedikt Szmrecsanyi and Freek Van de Velde
CHAPTER 4
Theme as a proxy for register categorization	85
Javier Pérez-Guerra
CHAPTER 5
Between context and community: Regional variation in register effects in the English dative alternation	111
Melanie Röthlisberger
CHAPTER 6
A register variation perspective on varieties of English	143
Stella Neumann and Stefan Evert

CHAPTER 7
Register and modification in the noun phrase		179
	Yolande Botha and Maryka van Zyl
CHAPTER 8
A register approach toward pop lyrics in EFL education		209
	Valentin Werner
CHAPTER 9
On the importance of register in learner writing:
A multi-dimensional approach		235
	Tove Larsson, Magali Paquot and Douglas Biber
CHAPTER 10
Nominalizations in Early Modern English: A cross-register perspective		259
	Paula Rodríguez-Puente
CHAPTER 11
Measuring informativity: The rise of compounds as informationally
dense structures in 20th-century Scientific English		291
	Stefania Degaetano-Ortlieb
CHAPTER 12
Exploring sub-register variation in Victorian newspapers:
Evidence from the British Library Newspapers database		313
	Turo Hiltunen
Index		339