

Contents

Acknowledgments xi

Introduction: War, Genocide, and Forced Migration 3

RANDALL HANSEN, ACHIM SAUPE, ANDREAS WIRSCHING, AND DAQING YANG

Part 1: Methodological and Theoretical Approaches

1 From Hero's Death to Suffering Victim: Reflections
on the "Post-Heroic" Culture of Memory 21

ANDREAS WIRSCHING

2 Victim Identities and the Dynamics of "Authentication":
Patterns of Shaping, Ranking, and Reassessment 50

MICHAEL SCHWARTZ

Part 2: Victims of Genocide and Massacres

3 Eastern European Shoah Victims and the Problem of Group Identity 79

INGO LOOSE

4 History on Trial before the Social Welfare Courts:
Holocaust Survivors, German Judges, and the Struggle for "Ghetto Pensions" 94

JÜRGEN ZARUSKY

- 5 Construction of Victimhood in Contemporary China:
Toward a Post-Heroic Representation of History? 104

DAQING YANG

- 6 The "Death of Manila" in the Second World War and Its Postwar Commemoration 125

NAKANO SATOSHI

Part 3: War Victims

- 7 Air Raid Victims in Japan's Collective Remembrance of War 153

JAMES ORR

- 8 Between Memory and Policy: How Societies of Leningrad Siege Survivors Remember the War 169

TATIANA VORONINA

- 9 Victims, Perpetrators, or Both? How History Textbooks and History Teachers in Post-Soviet Lithuania
Remember Postwar Partisans 197

BARBARA CHRISTOPHE

Part 4: Victims of Forced Migration and Deportations

- 10 In Search of a Usable Memory: The Politics of History and the Day of Commemoration for German Forced Migrants after the Second World War 221

MATHIAS BEER

- 11 Of Italian Perpetrators and Victims: Forced Migration in the Italian-Yugoslavian Border Region, 1922–1954 246

TOBIAS HOF

- 12 Defiant Victims: The Deportation of the Chechen and the Memory of Stalinism in the Soviet Union and Russia 271

MORITZ FLORIN

- 13 East Asian Victimhood Goes to Paris: A Consideration of Second World War-Related Chinese, Japanese, and Korean Nominations to UNESCO's Memory of the World Project 296

LORI WATT

Contributors 317

Index 321