Contents

List of Tables | ix
Foreword by Thorsten Moritz | xi
Preface | xiii
Acknowledgments | xvii
Abbreviations | xix

Introduction | 1
The Genre of Luke–Acts 3
The Dating of Luke–Acts 4
Luke's Prefaces 5
The Authorship of Luke–Acts 7
Luke's Purpose(s) 9
Scholarly Precedent 11

Chapter 1: Social Identity in the Early Church | 13
Cultural Memory and the Early Church 14
Social Identity: A Survey of the Scholarship 16
Social Identity Theory 27
The Social Function of Group Beliefs 34
Group Beliefs in Acts 36
Narrative and Intertextuality 46
Conclusion 52

Chapter 2: God-Fearers as Luke's Audience | 53
God-Fearers in Acts 54
God-Fearers in Scholarship 58
Minor Characters and Decentralization 63

The Critic-Response Type-Scene 78
Conclusion 88

Chapter 3: The Gospel and Decentralization in Luke–Acts | 89
The New Exodus in Luke–Acts 91
The Rhetorical Use of Names in Luke–Acts 93
Promise and Fulfillment in Luke 95
Promise and Fulfillment in Acts 129
Conclusion 141

Chapter 4: Luke's Use of Prototypes and Exemplars | 142
What is a Prototype? 143
Prototypical Figures in Acts 144
Minor Characters 158
Excursus: Angels and Visions in Luke's Writings 165
Sinai and Pentecost: Forming a New Covenant 168
Exemplars and Anti-Exemplars 170
Conclusion 181

Chapter 5: Luke's Identity-Forming Rhetoric and the Speeches in Acts | 183
Rhetoric in the First Century 187
The Use of Names in the Historiograpical Speeches in Acts 192
Stephen's Identity-Forming Rhetoric 194
The Rhetorical Function of The Land 208
Stephen's Critique of the Temple 216
Rhetorical Method in Paul's Speech 219
Conclusion 231

Conclusion | 232

Bibliography | 239