

Contents

---

List of Figures	page ix
Acknowledgements	xi
List of Abbreviations	xii
Map	xiv
1 Expanding the Canon: Minoritization in the World and in Linguistic Theory	1
2 Indexical Shift in Zazaki and Uyghur	10
2.1 With an Eye and an Ear towards Zazaki	10
2.2 Indexical Shifting in Zazaki	12
2.3 The Consequences of an Overwriting Operator	16
2.4 Two Kinds of Embedding in Uyghur	20
2.5 Towards an Implicational Hierarchy of Shifting Patterns	23
3 Why Ergative Case Requires Structure in Basque and Ch'ol	26
3.1 A Sole Survivor	26
3.2 'A' Is for Agent	27
3.3 When Ergative Can Be Removed or Imposed	32
3.4 Splitting Hairs: The Progressive Aspect	35
3.5 How the Mayan Language Ch'ol Thickened the Plot	38
4 Closest Conjunct Agreement in Slovenian and Xhosa	42
4.1 *Has the woman who coffee is happy?	42
4.2 Data Is Not the Plural of Anecdote	46
4.3 So Where Can Linearity Prevail over Hierarchy?	51
4.4 A Two-Step Theory of Agreement	55
4.5 Southern Bantu: Nonbinary Gender to the Seventh Power	56
5 Configurationality of Objects in Chichewa and Warlpiri	61
5.1 Rethinking Direct Objects	61
5.2 Symmetries within Bantu Applicatives	66
5.3 Transfer-of-Possession Is a Low Matter	71
5.4 Warlpiri: A 'Nonconfigurational' Language with Asymmetric Objects	74
5.5 Be Wary of Flatland	81

6	Partial Nasality in Maxakalí and Kaingang	84
6.1	What My DoktorGroßVater Proposed, and What He Didn't Have a Chance to See	84
6.2	The Trouble with /b/	87
6.3	Enhancement Theory and Hypervoicing	90
6.4	Nasal Shielding	91
6.5	On the Timing of Contoured Consonants	93
7	Symmetric Hands in Sign Language Phonologies	99
7.1	Sociohistorical Variation as a Window onto Sign Language Structure	99
7.2	From Cheremes to the Asymmetry of the Two Hands	103
7.3	A Paucity of Unmarked Shapes of the Base Hand	109
7.4	The Feature [+bimanual] in Minimal Pairs and Allophony	116
7.5	Empirical Contributions of Black ASL Phonology to the Model	122
7.6	Modeling the Restricted Status of H <sub>2</sub> : Features vs. Prosody	128
7.7	Conclusion	134
8	Number-Encoding on Verbs in Hiaki and Chechen	137
8.1	Roots and Suppletion: How Marginal?	137
8.2	The Subset Principle: Back to Warlpiri	138
8.3	Speech Errors to the Rescue	140
8.4	Going and Wending in Hiaki	143
8.5	When Suppletion Is Based on Morphosyntactic Features	149
8.6	Suppletion beyond Uto-Aztecan Verbs	153
8.7	Uncountable Mass Events in Chechen	156
8.8	Mass and Count in Dëne Sų́líné	159
9	Conclusion: Towards Healthy Futures in the Language Sciences	163
9.1	The Argument So Far	163
9.2	On Unattested Chapters in This Version of This Book	165
9.3	The Value of Inclusivity, and Rethinking Aspects of Our Discipline	168
9.4	When Minoritized Languages Change Linguists' Daily Work	171
	Bibliography	175
	Index	193