

Contents

Acknowledgements — V

Common Abbreviations — VII

Note on Translations — IX

Note on Religion and “Religion” — XI

Overture

Left Out in the Cold War — 1

Part One Putting Marx in His Place

Chapter One

Carbuncles and All: The Difficult Life of a Difficult Man — 25

The Miseducation of a Prussian Gentleman: 1835–1842 — 25

Slings and Arrows: 1843–1845 — 27

Panic and Poverty: 1845–1847 — 30

Sleeping on a Volcano: 1847–1849 — 32

In the Midst of Debt: 1849–1852 — 36

Toil and Trouble: 1853–1859 — 39

Signs of Life: 1860–1867 — 44

The Red Doctor: 1868–1871 — 47

Pax Britannica: 1872–1883 — 49

Postscript

Unreading Marx in the Twenty-First Century — 52

The Political Economy of Wages: The Bourgeois View from above — 52

The Political Economy of Wages: The Socialist View from below — 55

Conclusion — 59

Chapter Two

Age of the Living Dead: Marx and the Political Economy of an Upside-Down World — 61

The Allure of an Archival Mirage — 61

Gods, Dreams, and Other Cognitive Puzzles — 64

- No Feet, No Eyes, No Minds — 68
- Intuition Pumps and Other Party Tricks — 71
- Political Economy or Capitalist Theology? — 73
- The Political Economy of an Upside-down World — 76
- On Second Thought — 81
- Conclusion — 85

Postscript

- Marx and the End of Marxist “Ideology” — 88
 - Marx, Politics, and “Ideology” — 91
 - Marx, Economics, and “Ideology” — 92
 - On the Political Economy of Windbags — 95
 - Conclusion — 98

Chapter Three

False Friends and True Comrades: Engels on the Limits of Christian Socialism — 100

- The View from Above: Religion, Revolution, and the Past — 103
- The View from Below: Religion, Revolution, and the Future — 107
- Local Gods and International Struggles — 114
- Proletarian Politics and the Limits of Christian Charity — 121
- Conclusion — 122

Postscript

- Marx and Engels? Marx or Engels? Marx vs. Engels? — 126
 - A Star Is Born — 127
 - The Fine Art of Muddling Through — 130

Chapter Four

Vanguard of the Revolution: Plekhanov, Russian Marxism, and the Peasant Question — 133

- Anarchism, Marxism, and Revolutionary Ambition — 136
- Revolutionary Hope and Marxist Discipline — 142
- Marx, Marxism, and a Sack of Potatoes — 145
- Are the Peasants Revolting? — 149
- Russian Gods and the Modes of Production — 155
- Conclusion — 158

PostscriptHow Heavy is a Nightmare? — 161Power without Control: 1917–1922 — 162Distant Early Warning: 1922–1928 — 166No Place to Hide: 1929–1941 — 167*Interlude*Capital Red in Tooth and Claw — 171*Part Two Taking Marx to Work*Chapter Five*Which Side Are You On? Religion as Contentious Cosmopolitics — 177Draft Records, Buddhist Monks, and Other Fiery Things — 179The Shirts and Skins of Geopolitics — 183Mundane Stakes and Cosmic Frames — 188Conclusion — 193*Postscript*Interwar Fascists, Post-War Boomers, and the Study of Religion — 198Anti-Communism and the Ding an sich — 198Conclusion — 200*Chapter Six*Real Enough to Count: Critical Criticism and the Genealogy of “Religion” — 203From Something to Nothing: The Early-modern Politics of Not-politics — 204Puzzles of Production: Wage Labor, Slavery, and the Economy — 209Is There a Class in This Text? — 219Capitalist Logic and the Razor-sharp Edge of Class — 224Conclusion — 226*Postscript*Class, Contention, and Capital in Eighteenth-Century England — 231All Things Must Past — 231Competitive Constraint and Existential Demand — 234Conclusion — 238

Coda

A World of Trouble — 241

Bibliography — 255

Index — 276