

In order to elucidate the specific contours of the image concept of Colossians, Travis R. Niles situates the predication of Christ as the »image of the invisible God« in various ancient image discourses, such as those of Qumran, the Wisdom of Solomon, Philo, and Plutarch.