

Contents

List of Illustrations x

Preface xii

SAMANTHA DEUTCH AND MARGARET R. LASTER

Acknowledgments xviii

SAMANTHA DEUTCH

Introduction: Collecting American Art During the Long Nineteenth Century 2

LINDA S. FERBER

PART I

Crafting a Cultural Identity: Early Tastemakers,
Collectors, and Patrons

1. The Patronage of Robert Gilmore, Jr.: The Role of a Merchant
Prince in Defining an American School of Art 20

LANCE HUMPHRIES

2. An Art Museum for Gotham: The Luman Reed Collection and the
New-York Gallery of the Fine Arts 34

MARGARET R. LASTER

3. Power Failure: The American Art-Union Experiment 48

KIMBERLY ORCUTT

4. Daniel Wadsworth and Elizabeth Hart Jarvis Colt: Connecticut's
Leading Collectors of American Landscape Art 64

ELIZABETH MANKIN KORNHAUSER

PART II

Turbulence of Taste in Mid-Nineteenth-Century America

5. Nicholas Longworth: Early Midwestern Activist Art Patron 80

LYNNE D. AMBROSINI

6. Patrons of Reform: Collecting the American Pre-Raphaelites 94

SOPHIE LYNFORD

7. "Encouraging American Genius": The Corcoran Gallery of Art, from Private Collection to the Nation's Art Museum 108

SARAH CASH

PART III

Promoting, Advancing, and Collecting American Art
at the Turn of the Century and Beyond

8. Samuel Untermyer: The Man Who Bought Whistler's *Falling
Rocket* 122

BARBARA DAYER GALLATI

9. "Caveat Emptor": The Trade in American Historical Portraits in the Early Twentieth Century 134

RICHARD SAUNDERS

10. A Curator's Perspective: William Preston Harrison, Childe Hassam, and a Quest for Legacy in California 148

ILENE SUSAN FORT

11. The Grand Central Art Galleries: Expanding the Taste and Market for American Art in the 1920s and 1930s 162

JULIE MCGINNIS FLANAGAN

Notes 177

References 195

List of Contributors 205

Index 207