

CONTENTS

List of Contributors	vii
Acknowledgements	xii
Introduction: Understanding childhood and trauma	1
1 (Re)surging the traumatic memory: Recovery, healing, and the therapeutic reading of the select childhood memoirs Goutam Karmakar	9
2 Telling the “untellable”: Mapping trauma through spatial negotiations in Munnu: A Boy from Kashmir Amrita Das	23
3 War and children: A specific case of historical experience Sonia Knapczyk	37
4 Childhood trauma and ableism in partition fiction Nukhbah Taj Langdah and Sobia Kiran	50
5 Representation of disability, memory, and conflict: through Sorayya Khan’s Noor (2003) Anu Susan Abraham	64

6	Surviving the body: Narrating childhood disability, disabled body, and trauma in the context of Matthew Sanford and Emily Rapp's Memoirs Somasree Sarkar	79
7	Lament graphically drawn: Dynamism of Indian comics in sensitizing child abuse inside the House Priyanka Tripathi, Partha Bhattacharjee, and Bidisha Pal	91
8	Reimagi(ni)ng childhood traumas: Distorted perceptions of the self in Una's Becoming Unbecoming Rupali	102
9	Childhood innocence and vulnerability to sex abuse Rahul Kamble	111
10	Fatherlessness and bastardization in the West Indian novel: The trauma of being "Outside Children" Meenakshi Bharat	121
11	Mothering a Muslim : Shielding, buffering, and adapting Sadia Hasan	133
12	The trope of the bastard child: A close study of Children of War (2014) Sango Bidani	144
13	Understanding childhood gender non-conformity and formation of self vis-à-vis hijra personal narratives Shrimi Gupta	153
14	Love, longing, and trauma in children and young adult's literature in Japan Suman Sigroha and Arya Priyadarshini	165
15	Children first, disabled or not: A study of inclusivity in twenty-first-century Indian English children's literature Anurima Chanda	180
	Index	193