

CONTENTS

Preface
Giuliano Boccali . . . . .	p.	XI
Editors' Note . . . . .	»	XVII
Abbreviations . . . . .	»	XIX

EPICS

Kings and Ascetics in Indian Classical Literature. A Case-Study of King Daśaratha and the ṛsis in the Vālmīki-Rāmāyaṇa Danielle Feller . . . . .	»	3
Bharadvāja's Hermitage and the Paradise of the Warrior ( Rāmāyaṇa II 85) Cinzia Pieruccini . . . . .	»	25
Where the Ascetics Lead their Life of Austerities, there Peace and Beauty are. What Makes a Place an āśrama in the Mahābhārata and in Kālidāsa's Work Tiziana Pontillo . . . . .	»	43

KĀVYA

The Description of the Hermitage. Raghuvamśa I 35-55 Anna Bonisoli Alquati . . . . .	p.	61
The Varied Picture of Kings in the nāṭya Literature Klara Gönc Moaçanin . . . . .	»	79
The Angry Ascetic and the Pacifying King: A Socio-Cultural Study in Kālidāsa's Poetry Chettiarthodi Rajendran . . . . .	»	93
Some Observations on Sanskrit as Court Language Bruno Lo Turco . . . . .	»	103
Satire, Wit and Humour on Kings and Ascetics in kāvya Literature. «He who laughs last, laughs best» Daniela Rossella . . . . .	»	117
Desire and Non-Desire. The Forest of Asceticism in the Poetry of Aśvaghōṣa Paola Maria Rossi . . . . .	»	135
Innuendo and Irony in Bāṇa's Treatment of Kings and Ascetics David Smith . . . . .	»	149
The Kings of the Śiśupālavadha Anna Trynkowska . . . . .	»	163

ŚĀSTRAS

King-Priest Relations in the Tradition of the Nāṭyaśāstra Natalia R. Lidova . . . . .	»	177
The King Is Hunting: Is it Good or Bad? Gyula Wojtilla . . . . .	»	199

MIDDLE AGES AND DEVOTION

The King and the Ascetic in Keśavadāsa's Jahāṅgīra Jasa Candrikā Stefania Cavaliere . . . . .	p.	215
Kings, Ascetics and Sidelong Glances Cezary Galewicz . . . . .	»	231
The saṁnyāsīn and the King. Plays of Society and Acts of Devotion Alessandro Grabeli . . . . .	»	253
Why Would a King Become an Ascetic? A Few Political Answers from Hindi Mediaeval Literature Giorgio Milanetti . . . . .	»	267
Rāvaṇa King of Lankā in Tamil Śaiva and Vaiṣṇava Devotional Poetry Emanuela Panattoni . . . . .	»	297
A PICTURE GALLERY Ginzia Pieruccini . . . . .	»	311
Indexes Index of Names . . . . .	»	349
Index of Literary Works . . . . .	»	355
Index of Places . . . . .	»	359