

This volume is a Norwegian/German collaboration led by Trygve Wyller and Hans-Günter Heimbrock. It introduces a new way of approaching ethics. The authors point out that it is possible to show phenomenological ethics in practice. The lived experience (praxis) is as important as the professional experience. What people research here is the dynamics between these two fields of experience where the professional experience is taken from the general life experience.

Contributions by Jonas Bauer, Silke Leonhard, Peter Meyer, Kerstin Söderblom, Lisbeth Thoresen, Ingvil Lønning, Solveig Botnen Eide, Trygve Wyller and Hans-Günter Heimbrock.

The Editors

Dr. theol. Trygve Wyller is Professor of Systematic Theology and the studies of Christian and Social Practice at the University of Oslo.

Dr. theol. Hans-Günther Heimbrock is Professor of Practical Theology at the University of Frankfurt.