

Contents

List of Figures	vii
List of Abbreviations	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii

1. Points to Ponder: An Introductory Note	1
2. The Philosophy and Concept of Community Policing	4
3. Active Quadruple: Four P's—Police, Politician, Press, and Public	22
4. Management Gap: A Hindrance to Participative Policing	43
5. Police Syndrome	69
6. Perspective Constrains	76
7. Police's Opinion about Their Jobs	88
8. Variables Acting as Hindrance to Participative Policing	102
9. Benefits of Participation	114
10. Curative Suggestions to Bring Attitudinal Change in Police	133

CASE STUDIES

11. Communal Violence in Narsingharh, Madhya Pradesh, and the Aftermath	151
12. Timor-Leste: Partners in Policing Model (PIP Model)	174
13. Coordinated Response to Combat Violence against Women: A Participative Policing Initiative of Madhya Pradesh Police, India	187

vi Community Policing

14. Experiences of Timor-Leste (East Timor): Domestic Violence Redressal Forum—A Redressal Mechanism in Timor-Leste	204
15. For a Better Future	213
Index	223
About the Author	227