

“Indispensable. A splendid resource for students at several levels, not merely in religious studies, but for anyone exploring the society and culture of the Hellenistic and Roman worlds.”

—WAYNE A. MEEKS, Woolsey Professor Emeritus of Biblical Studies, Yale University

“A very welcome resource from a powerhouse of research. This collection is quite extensive and contains considerably more than most New Testament scholars are aware of.”

—ABRAHAM MALHERBE, Buckingham Professor Emeritus of New Testament Criticism and Interpretation, Yale Divinity School

With new translations of inscriptions and papyri from hundreds of associations, alongside descriptions of more than two dozen archaeological remains of building sites, Associations in the Greco-Roman World provides students and scholars with a clear and readable resource for greater understanding of the social, cultural, and religious life across the ancient Mediterranean. Complemented by a substantial annotated bibliography and accompanying images, this sourcebook fills many gaps and allows for future exploration in studies of the Greco-Roman religious world, particularly the nature of Judean and Christian groups at that time.

RICHARD S. ASCOUGH is Associate Professor and Director of the School of Religion, Queen's University, Kingston.

PHILIP A. HARLAND is Associate Professor of Religion and Ancient History at York University, Toronto.

JOHN S. KLOPPENBORG is Professor and Chair, Department for the Study of Religion, University of Toronto.