

Contents

Introduction	1
The Secret Instinct	2
The Fall, Self-Knowledge, and the Aversion for the Truth	5
Sin and Self-Deception	9
Sin, Paradox, and Self-Estrangement	12
Outline of the Argument	14
Interpreting Pascal on the Fall into Duplicity	15
1. The Evaluative Fall: Disordered Love and the Aversion to Truth	19
Pascal's Augustinian Anthropology: Amour-Propre and Pride	20
From Pride to Disordered Love	25
The Evaluative Fall	30
The Evaluative Fall and the Cycle of Desire	34
Rapport , Truth, and Attractiveness	38
Ennui and Diversion as Signs of the Fall into Duplicity	42
Objection: Am I Really So Unhappy?	46
2. The Reign of Duplicity: Pascal's Political Theology	51
Imagination, Illusion, and Political Order	52
That "Proud Power": Pascal's Critique of the Imagination	57
The Political Imagination and the Duplicitous Social Order	68
The Pretenses of Power	70
Politics as a Diversion from Truth	76
Blaise Pascal, Critical Theorist	79
Political Progress, True Justice, and the Church	87
3. The Imaginary Self in a World of Illusion: Pascal on the Fallen Human Subject	92
What is the Self?	94
The Moi : The False Self	97
The Moi and Self-Interpretation	105
What is it like to be a False Self? An Example from George Eliot's Middlemarch	107

Nicholas Bulstrode as a Pascalian Moi	111
Parodying God by Performing the False Self	117
4. Sin and Self-Deception in Pascal's Moral Theology	121
Sinful Self-Deception as Culpable Self-Persuasion	121
Pascal on Moral Wrongdoing: The Wider Context	123
Self-Deceptive Moral Judgments are Interpretive	125
Pascal on Moral Judgment: The Heart, Sentiment , and Finesse	129
The Imagination Bestows Value	137
How Moral Reasoning Goes Wrong: Self-Deception	140
Conclusion: What is Self-Deception?	144
5. On Lying to Oneself: Analytic Philosophy on Self-Deception	146
From "Lying To Oneself" to "Irrational Belief-Formation" Paradox!	149
Paradoxes of Attention and Awareness	163
"Perpetually Holistic Self-Transparency"	169
Conclusion: Pascal Contra Self-Transparency	172
6. A Pascalian Model of Sin as Self-Deception: Morally Culpable Self-Persuasion	176
Lying to Oneself as a Form of Culpable Self-Persuasion	179
Persuasion, Reason, Rationalization	180
The Steps of Self-Persuasion	182
Self-Persuasion, Self-Deception, and Human Agency	184
Paradox Dispelled	195
How to Construct a False Self	198
Conclusion: Self-Deception, the Fall, and the Hiddenness of God	204
7. The Way Back: On Loving the Truth	209
Grace as Pleasure and Delight in the Good	212
Loving the Truth as a Religious Stance	212
Subjectivity without Duplicity: The True Self Imitates Christ	215
The Final Word	217
Bibliography	225
Index	227