

Contents

Franziska Schedewie, Frank Grüner, and Raphael Utz
Introduction	1
Heinz-Dietrich Löwe: Bibliography	11

Part I: Shifting Identities

Gregory L. Freeze
Priests and Revolution: The Parish Clergy of Vladimir in 1905	19
Franziska Schedewie
Peasant Economic Interests in 1905	39
Gerald Surh
Jewish Self-Defense, Revolution, and Pogrom Violence in 1905	55
Brian Horowitz
Crystallizing Memory: How Russian Jews in the First Emigration Canonized their Legacy	75

Part II: Revolution and Civil Society

Susanne Hohler
Radical Right Civil Society	93
François Guesnet
Revolutionary Hinterland : Transformations of Jewish Associational Life in the Kingdom of Poland, 1904–06	105
Felix Heinert
(Re)Locating Jewishness and Representing Jewish Community in Riga Before and After 1905: Urban Elites, Local Politics, Cultural Self-Representations, and Intracommunal Conflict	121

Part III: Center and Peripheries

Lothar Maier

- Distant Allies: The Revolutionary Movement and Native Resistance in the North Caucasus 1905–13 143

Malte Rolf

- A Continuum of Crisis? The Kingdom of Poland in the Shadow of Revolution (1905–15) 159

Frank Grüner

- The Russian Revolution of 1905 at the Periphery:
The Case of the Manchurian City of Harbin 175

Ralph Tuchtenhagen

- Autonomy, Sovereignty, Class Struggle?
Motifs of Rioting in Finland 1905–06 197

Katja Wezel

- Loyalty, Minority, Monarchy: The Baltic German Press and 1905 213

Dittmar Dahlmann

- Mutinous Soldiers, Striking Workers, and Middle-Class
Regionalists: Siberia in the Revolution of 1905–07 225

Part IV: The Revolution in Media and Culture

Christoph Garstka

- The Revolution of 1905 in Polish Literature:
Henryk Sienkiewicz's Wiry (Whirls) and Andrzej Strug's
Dzieje jednego pocisku (The Story of One Bomb) 245

Felicitas Fischer von Weikersthal

- The Revolution of 1905, Art, and Soviet Propaganda 257

Part V: The International Dimension and Flows of Concepts and Ideas

Gotelind Müller

- China and the Russian Revolution of 1905 279

Raphael Utz

Revolution, Diplomacy, and the Media:

Russian and British Liberals in 1906 291

Peter Waldron

Russia's Finances and 1905 311

Maik Hendrik Sprotte

The Conquest of Bread: Japanese Early Socialism and the Russian Revolution of 1905 as an Inspiration 325

Contributors 339