

CONTENTS

Chapter 1.

Introduction	1
---------------------------	---

Chapter 2.

Transitional Justice and the Spanish Case	7
--	---

1. Theoretical background: models of transitional justice	7
2. Transitional justice and historical memory.....	10
3. Victims' rights	14
3.1. The triad of truth, justice and reparation.	14
3.1.1. Truth.....	14
3.1.2. Justice.....	15
3.1.3. Reparation.....	15
3.2. The development of international law: the basic principles	16
3.3. New victims' rights within a transitional context: identity and personal memory.....	18
4. Evaluating the Spanish case.....	19
4.1. Time.....	19
4.2. The symmetry and asymmetry of victimisation.....	20
4.3. The weakness of democratic forces.....	21
4.4. A smooth and non-violent transition.....	21

Chapter 3.

The Burden of Spain's 20th Century History	23
--	----

1. Introduction.....	23
2. The battle for memory.....	24
3. The democratic experience of the Republic.....	27
4. The denial of democracy leads to war.....	31
5. Dictatorship, repression and memory according to the victors.....	34
6. The difficult relationship between Spanish democracy and its uncomfortable history.....	44

Chapter 4.

The Repression and Its Legal Structure 49

1.	Basis of the repression	49
2.	Depuration	50
3.	Criminal law under Francoism	50
4.	Large legislation on criminal matters.	52
5.	The Penal Code of 1944.	56
	5.1. Moral and religious inspiration.	57
	5.2. A socially insensitive criminal justice system.	57
	5.3. A “criminal law of author”	58
	5.4. Sexism	58
6.	Victor’s justice and retaliation: the Causa General	59

Chapter 5.

A Transition without Justice? 61

1.	The “Spanish model”: rhetoric about reconciliation and a decision not to look back to the past.	61
2.	Amnesty	63
3.	The Constitution of 1978: rule of law, institutionalisation of the democratic state and legal reform	67
4.	Repairing the past: gradual and partial measures of reparation	68
5.	The victim’s policy	72

Chapter 6.

Questioning the Transition: Late Transitional Justice? 75

1.	A new social and political context	75
2.	Social activism	76
3.	The political response	79
4.	Evaluating the transition	81

Chapter 7.

The Historical Memory Act and Its Implementation. 83

1.	General remarks.	83
2.	Rehabilitation of condemned persons	86
3.	Reparation.	98
4.	The exhumation and identification of the victims	99
5.	Social reaction and implementation	100
6.	The Catalan Mass Graves Act 2009.	103
7.	New provisions concerning the declaration of death.	105

Chapter 8.
Prosecuting the Crimes of Francoism	107
1. Precedents	107
1.1. An exceptional case for prosecution	107
1.2. Prosecution of crimes committed in other countries	109
1.2.1. Universal jurisdiction	109
1.2.2. Chile	110
1.2.3. Argentina	111
1.2.4. Guatemala	113
1.2.5. Sahara	114
1.2.6. From absolute universal jurisdiction to its legal restriction	114
1.2.7. Cases with Spanish victims of on-going prosecution	116
1.2.8. An internal echo: the Paracuellos case	117
2. A judicial decision to prosecute the crimes of Francoism and its consequences	118
2.1. The Garzón case	118
2.2. An overview from the procedural perspective	125
Chapter 9.
Is Criminal Prosecution Viable? The Theoretical Debate.	133
1. The legal description of crimes and the problem of retroactivity	133
1.1. Crimes against humanity under Spanish criminal law	133
1.2. An appeal to natural law	134
1.3. An appeal to international criminal law	136
1.4. Convictions for other crimes	140
1.4.1. An innovative solution?	140
1.4.2. Murder	142
1.4.3. Forced disappearances	142
2. Prescription	145
3. The Amnesty Act	149
3.1. Amnesty under Spanish law	149
3.2. Types of amnesty	151
3.2.1. Self-amnesty	152
3.2.2. Individualised and conditional amnesties	153
3.2.3. General amnesty aimed at peacekeeping	154
3.3. The legitimacy of amnesty laws	155
3.4. The effects of the Spanish Amnesty Act	160
4. The lost children of Francoism	163
5. Abduction of minors and unlawful adoptions	167

Chapter 10.

Seeking Justice more than Thirty Years after the Transition..... 171

1. What kind of justice and for which victims?..... 171
2. Recognising the limits of criminal justice..... 176
3. Why not a truth commission? 178

Bibliography 185

Internet resources 193

Appendix. Spanish Historical Memory Act 195