

Contents

List of Figures		vii
Preface		ix
Part I	Introductory Material	1
	1 Religion	3
	2 Language	11
Part II	The Confucian Tradition	19
	3 Defining “Religion”: The Confucian Response	21
	4 The Religious Dimensions of Confucianism	28
	5 The Self as a Center of Relationships	36
	6 Learning to Be Human	44
	7 The Lasting Influence of Confucianism in Modern East Asia	51
Part III	The Taoist Tradition	59
	8 What Is Taoism?	61
	9 Philosophical Taoism	68
	10 Temporal Dimensions of Yin–Yang Cosmology	76
	11 Spatial Dimensions of Yin–Yang Cosmology	82
	12 Personal Dimensions of Yin–Yang Cosmology	90
	13 Taoism as a Global Religious Phenomenon	96
Part IV	The Hindu Tradition	103
	14 What Is Hinduism?	105
	15 Karma-marga	111
	16 Jñāna-marga	117
	17 Bhakti-marga	123
	18 Hinduism in the Modern World	133

Part V	The Theravāda Buddhist Tradition	139
	19 Buddhism and the Buddha	141
	20 Suffering and Its Causes	149
	21 Buddhist Ethics	156
	22 The Fruits of Meditation	164
	23 Monastic Practice	171
Part VI	The Mahāyāna Buddhist Tradition	179
	24 Faith	181
	25 Principles of Zen Buddhism	189
	26 Buddhism as a Global Religion	199
Part VII	Japanese Religions	207
	27 Japanese Religion and Culture	209
	28 Shrine Shintō: Dimensions of Sacred Time and Space in Japan	218
	29 Dimensions of Religion in Modern Japan	227
Part VIII	Conclusions	237
	30 “Religion” and the Religions	239
	Appendix: Suggestions for Further Reading	246
	Glossary	255
	Index	260