

Contents

Introduction	1
1. Research topic	1
2. Previous research on the layout of Buddhist monasteries in Early Medieval China	5
3. The significance of the topic and research methods.....	9
Chapter I - Monastery Layout in Early Medieval China: Textual Evidence	15
1. The introduction of Buddhism and the establishment of early monasteries in China	15
2. Buddhist monasteries in the Northern and Southern Dynasties	21
3. Buddhist monastery system during the Sui and Tang Dynasties.....	25
Chapter II - Monastery Layout in Early Medieval China: Archaeological Evidence	29
1. Monastery layout in the mid 5 th century: the Yungang Monastery in Pingcheng....	29
2. Monastery layout in the late 5 th century: the Siyuan Monastery in Pingcheng and the Siyuan Monastery in Longcheng.....	31
3. Monastery layout in the early 6 th century: the Yongningsi Monastery in Luoyang	35
4. Monastery layout in the late 6 th century: the Zhaopengcheng Monastery in Yecheng	42
5. Monastery layout in the first half of the 7 th century: the Linggansi Monastery and the Qinglongsi Monastery in Chang'an	49
6. Monastery layout in the mid 7 th century: the Ximingsi Monastery in Chang'an	56
Chapter III - Monastery Layout in Early Medieval China: Development and Evolution	61
1. Buddhist Monastery: Main buildings and auxiliary buildings	61
2. Monastery layout: types, periodization and distinctive features	64
3. The evolution of monastery layout from the Northern Wei to the Tang Dynasty ...	67
Chapter IV - Monastery Layout in Early Medieval East Asia: Archaeological Evidence and Research	73
1. The Korean Peninsula: Monastery Layout during the Three Kingdoms and Unified

Silla Periods.....	73
2. The Japanese Archipelago: monastery layout during the Asuka and Nara Periods	100
Chapter V - Monasteries Layout in East Asia between the 5th and 8th Century: a Comparative Analysis of their Layout	141
1. The 'Central Pagoda and One Hall in the rear' monastery layout: its diffusion	141
2. The 'Central Pagoda and three Halls' monastery layout: its origin and the contacts between North China and the Korean Peninsula.....	145
3. 'One Pagoda and one Hall side by side' and several other monastery layouts in Japan: their origin and meaning	160
4. The 'Central Hall and Twin Pagodas' monastery layout: its origin and significance in unified Silla and Japan	164
5. The main monastery layout types and their evolution	169
Chapter VI - Monastery Layout in Early Medieval China and East Asia: Form and Function.....	173
1. The Chinese pavilion-style pagoda: origin and meaning.....	173
2. The development of Buddha Hall: from India to Japan.....	187
3. The relationship between Multi-Compounds monastery layout and urban layout in East Asia.....	195
4. The interaction between space and function in the layout of Buddhist monastery	204