

Contents

Foreword by Klaus Segbers	7
Abstract	9
Acknowledgments	11
1 The EU and Russia in Times of Uncertainty: Intersubjective Identities and Discourses	13
1.1 The EU–Russia: Symptoms of Troubles	13
1.2 Contexts of Normative Disconnections	16
1.3 Clashes of Identities	18
1.4 Identities and Discourses	21
1.5 Intersubjectivity in EU–Russia Relations	27
1.6 Identity Shifts: Why Russia Is Not the USSR	33
1.7 International Society: A Meeting Point of the English School and Constructivism	37
1.8 Between the Imperial and the International	45
2 Multipolarity in Plural: The EU and Russia in Intersubjective Models of International Societies	57
2.1 Multipolarity Re-signified	58
2.2 Power Balancing: Back to Realpolitik?	63
2.3 Spheres of Influence	67
2.4 Great Power Management: An Oligarchic Type of Multipolarity?	71
2.5 Procedural Approximation	83
2.6 Normative Plurality	88
2.7 Normative Convergence	95
2.8 Multiregionalism: A World without Hegemons?	99
2.9 Poles as Civilizations	105

2.10 Global Governance: Learning to Live in a Postinternational World	108
3 Competing International Societies: Four Cases of EU–Russia Interactions	117
3.1 European Neighborhood Policy and Eastern Partnership: EU’s and Russia’s Approaches	117
3.2 Modernization Partnership and EU–Russia Normative Cleavages	137
3.3 EU–Russia Security (Mis)communication	149
3.4 Russia and Germany in a Wider Europe: Dynamics of Rapprochement and Alienation	182
Conclusions	207