

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction: "Reformation in a flood": The Religious Turn's Second Wave James D. Mardock	1
PART I. DRAMAS OF DOCTRINE
1. The Reformed Conscience: Woodes, Marlowe, and Shakespeare William W. E. Slights	21
2. Stoicism, Calvinism, and Determinism in Fulke Greville's Alaham Daniel Cadman	41
3. The Jacob and Esau Paradigm: Nicholas Udall's Predestinarian Problem Comedy Robert Hornback	63
PART II. STAGING THE POLITICS OF REFORM
4. Conciliarism and Liberty in Shakespeare and Fletcher's Henry VIII Adrian Streete	83
5. Martyrdom and Militancy in Marlowe's Massacre at Paris Elizabeth Pentland	107

6. Sacral Objects and the Measure of Kingship in Shakespeare's Henry VI 135
Brian J. Harries

PART III. PERFORMING PROTESTANTISM

7. Performing Catechism in Measure for Measure 155
Kathryn R. McPherson
8. Authorial Anxieties and Theatrical Instability:
John Bale's Biblical Plays and Shakespeare and Wilkins's Pericles 171
Katherine A. Gillen
9. Counterfeiting Faith: Middleton's Theatrical Reformation of Measure for Measure 195
Terri Bourus

PART IV. CONFSSIONAL AESTHETICS AND NOSTALGIA

10. Theatricality, Faith, and Color Imagery
in Philip Massinger 219
Lisa Hopkins
11. Of Ceremonies and Henry VIII 241
Jay Zysk
- Afterword 263
John D. Cox
- Notes 277
- About the Contributors 337
- Index 341