

Contents

List of Illustrations / vi

Acknowledgments/ xi

Introduction / 1

Alina Payne

I. Epistemic Images

1 / 13
Epistemic Images
Lorraine Daston

2 / 36
Drawing as an Instrument of Knowledge: The Case of Conrad Gessner
Sachiko Kusakawa

3 / 49
Aesthetic Appreciation of Nature in Early Modern Science
Catherine Wilson

II. Seeing the Unseeable

4 / 69
Leonardo's Point
Frank Fehrenbach

5 / 99
Beyond the Eye: Observing the Unseen in Mathematics and Architecture
Alina Payne

6 / 122
Dante's Eyes and the Abysses of Seeing: Poetical Optics and Concepts of Images in the Divine Comedy
Gerhard Wolf

7 / 138
The Invisible Element in Art:
Dürer, Shakespeare, Donne
Carla Mazzio

List of Contributors / 281

Index / 283

III. The Painter's Brush and the Mind's Eye

8 / 167
"Art on the Tip of the Brush": A Blind
Manœuvre? Reflections on Correggio's Brush, Arent de
Gelder's Spatula, and Pietro
Testa's Figure of Practice
Nicola Suthor

9 / 190
White Earth, or How to Cultivate Color in the Field of Painting: Still Life and Baroque Color Theory
Karin Leonhard

10 / 216
Counterfeit Chimeras:
Early Modern Theories of the Imagination and the Work of Art
Claudia Swan

IV. Looking Back: From Photography and Film to Alberti

11 / 241
Sculpture Before
Photography
Michael Cole

12 / 259
From Alberti's Finestra Aperta
to Hitchcock's Rear Window:
Avatars of the Scopic Drive
in Painting and Film
Victor I. Stoichita